High Price Paid For Carr Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Emily Carr painting sold for $18,000 at auction Tuesday. Purchaser was Toronto art dealer G. Blair Lang, who declined to say whether he was acting for himself or on behalf of a client. (See also Page 21.)

The price was $10,000 more than previous auction prices for works by the Victoria painter, who died in 1945.

The painting, Trees in the Sky, was presented to the late W. G. Murrin in 1916 when he retired as president of the B.C. Electric Company. He hung it in his basement.

'Door Not Closed'

Dignified Solution Possible—Smith

SALISBURY (UPI)—Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith said Tuesday his breakaway colony still was willing to negotiate the independence issue with Britain. He said it could be resolved "without loss of dignity or face to either side."

He blamed British insistence on a "return to legality"—abandonment of the illegal independence seized Nov. 11 last year—for the failure of the negotiations.

The British government's general attitude in discussions was not to negotiate, he said, but to prescribe conditions with which Rhodesia was expected to comply.

"As I have said so many times in the past, I will never shut the door to constructive discussions with anyone at any time."

Smith told the Rhodesian nation in a television appearance the main reason his government rejected the final British settlement terms framed out aboard the British cruiser HMS Tiger off Gibraltar was the British government's insistence that his government surrender its powers.

Smith said he still believed an "unbiased and uncommitted commission could solve this problem."

Forlorn Hope

Smith said Prime Minister Wilson's difficulty was that he had made so many commitments to extremist elements "that I believe he will never be able to see the Rhodesian problem in its true perspective."

"This is what bedevilled the issue between the two countries: fit along and will continue to do so unless or until some unbiased person or influence can be brought to bear."

"It is my hope—albeit a forlorn hope—that the British government will come to appreciate that we cannot tamely submit to dictation and surrender our lives and our future unconditionally to their demands."

Rhodesia Offered U.K. Union

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain offered Rhodesia earlier this year an act of union between the two countries as a possible way out of the Rhodesian independence crisis, Prime Minister Wilson said Tuesday night.

In a countrywide television broadcast, the British leader said that under such a system, until Negro-majority rule was achieved in Rhodesia, Rhodesia and Britain would become one country, with Rhodesians, white and Negro, elected to the British Parliament.

These Rhodesian members of Parliament would have played a full part in all British affairs while Rhodesia still enjoyed full domestic self-government.

"I believe this was an offer of unparalleled generosity in the history of Britain and the Commonwealth," Wilson said.

But Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith had rejected this offer "as he and his colleagues have now rejected the honorable settlement we worked out last week."

Rhodesia: How Severe?

FIGHT STARTS OVER SQUEEZE

From CP, UPI

Effective sanctions against rebellious Rhodesia will be sought at a meeting of the United Nations Security Council called Monday for within 48 hours, but the demands will differ with the source.

In London Prime Minister Wilson told a British television audience the economic sanctions Britain will seek would be "selective" and should not "set the whole of southern Africa ablaze."

Some African nations at the U.N., however, will press for nothing less than a total economic boycott of Rhodesia.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown left Britain by jet Tuesday to present the British case to the council in New York.

PLANNING PARLEY

The UN ambassadors of 38 African countries will meet today after Brown's arrival, to concert their plans, the African spokesman said.

Britain is expected to ask UN member countries to ban all trade with Rhodesia in certain vital commodities. There is some doubt as to whether oil will be among them.

The Commonwealth sanctions committee in London, headed by Canadian High Commissioner Lionel Chevrier, was scheduled to meet again today.

THREE AFRICANS

There are three African countries, Mali, Uganda and Nigeria, on the 15-country Security Council at present.

"Selective" sanctions, UN observers here said, would apply to the major cash-earning Rhodesian exports such as tobacco, chrome, asbestos, meat and pig iron, but would shy away from vital Rhodesian imports, such as oil, which might embroil South Africa.

Reports from Washington said the United States was ready to back whatever Britain asks the council to do.

The decision to seek sanctions against Rhodesia earlier sent prices tumbling on the London Stock Exchange. Paper value

Vorster Feels Pact Possible

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South African Premier John Vorster held out the possibility Tuesday night of a last-minute agreement between Britain and Rhodesia on the Rhodesian independence crisis. (See also Page 15.)

He said in a statement his all-white government does not believe such an agreement is impossible "if conditions were not insisted upon which make such a settlement impossible."

Observers believed the premier was referring to Britain's terms for a return to constitutional government in Rhodesia, rejected Monday night by the white-minority Rhodesian government of Ian Smith.

It was the first official South African government comment on the crisis since the rejection and Britain's decision to seek selective mandatory sanctions at the United Nations.

Vorster said he is extremely sorry that, whereas Anglo-Rhodesian agreement had been reached within the framework of Britain's basic principles, the matter is "now being referred to the United Nations only because agreement could not be reached on certain matters of procedure."

"It must be emphasized that no one's cause will be served by this, and it must be foreseen that it will probably create interminable bitterness and damage," Vorster said.

Some Pensioners Won't Pay Tax

Victoria income tax officials' exemption for charitable donations cleared up one point on pensions and medical expenses. Persons between the age of 65 and 70 get an additional exemption of $500, bringing the total to $1,600, unless they are getting the old-age pension.

If they get the old-age pension, they do not get the additional exemption. The additional $330 a year could then put the pensioner in an income-tax-paying bracket.

All persons over 70 are entitled to the full $1,600 $1,000 for everyone, plus a $100 exemption.

Arbitration?

Docks Action Today

Arbitration may be employed to force an end to the critical British Columbia waterfront tieup, federal Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson said Tuesday in Vancouver before returning to Ottawa.

Mr. Nicholson said he would ask the Commons today to approve a proposal aimed at ending the 49-day-old strike, that is crippling shipping and is spreading layoffs in the forest industry.

"It is sufficient to say arbitration might be involved if necessary," he said, and declined to elaborate.

NO PROGRESS

The minister said he made no progress in a meeting with longshore employers earlier Tuesday, seeking acceptance of the formula he had proposed Sunday.

"As the prime minister and I have stated, this dispute can no longer hold up distribution of products and result in the laying off of thousands of persons in other industries," Mr. Nicholson said.

Mr. Nicholson's proposal would permit the 130 striking foremen to have grievance procedure and the right to form an association without belonging to the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

PRIMITIVE FORM

The longshore foremen accepted the proposal, but the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association turned it down, calling it a "device" and a "primitive form of collective agreement."

Contempt Warning Issued By Bugging-Case Judge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A warning about possible contempt action was issued Tuesday by retired judge R. A. Sargent, the one-man royal commission looking into the planting of electronic listening devices at a union convention.

The commissioner said he has the power of a Supreme Court judge to punish for contempt and will use the power if necessary. But he took no action against persons and publications a lawyer said were in contempt.

Mr. Sargent, a retired county court judge, said it is possible they did not realize he had the contempt power.

LAWYER COMPLAINS

The inquiry, ordered by Premier Bennett, opened Monday into charges that bugging devices were installed in Vancouver hotel rooms used by a convention of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

The union alleged that Pat O'Neal, organizer for the rival international brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, organized the eavesdropping.

Richard Anderson, lawyer for Mr. O'Neal, said there had already been contempt of the commission which prejudiced persons involved.

He said the contempt was committed in articles in the Pacific Tribune, Progressive Worker, the Vancouver Sun and in a letter to unions from Syd Thompson, president of Local 1217 of the International Woodworkers of America.

For 500 Fund

Victorian Yields Spirits to Spirit

One generous Victorian is going to forego "one" of his Christmas bottles in order that the area's 500 neediest families might have a little extra cheer for their Christmas.

The $5 donated by A. N. Onymous (whose donation was listed yesterday) only represents one cent per family, but added together, often enough pennies can assume an overwhelming aspect.

"Another $5 for the Colonist 500 Fund," Mr. Onymous writes, "representing one less creek of Christmas cheer so that someone less fortunate can have a better form of cheer."

One might say it's kind of like getting the spirit by giving up the spirits.

Numerous donors with the Spirit of Christmas added heavily to the fund Tuesday, raising its total $644.95 to $4,951.75. The almost $650 was the highest (no pun intended) one-day total to date.

Money collected is divided equally among the 500 neediest families in the area, as selected by welfare agencies.

Donations may be mailed to or left at The Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or Avis Rent-A-Car, 800 Douglas.

Treenappers Get the Needle

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Careful, country dwellers: the tree you buy may be your own. It's the annual treenapping time, and each year, the Christmas tree thieves grow bolder.

Take the brief two acres where a line with less than an acre of it unfolded.

It's a private little second-growth wilderness where family and friends gather each year to collect pine cones and long-needed boughs for door decorations, and green and scarlet sprays of prickly Oregon grape to eke out purchased holly.

It's a special spot, where a pair of pheasants has a secret hideaway. In late fall, the juncoes fill from willow bough to compost heap and seedpod. Flickers cluster around the old pear tree, now gone wild over the years. Robins go and towhees come, all finding peace and protection in the overgrown acre.

A dozen trees gone already, and it's still a week or so until the annual surge of tree-seeking.

The RCMP have their own way of dealing with treenappers. They issue stern warnings annually to those who would cut trees on crown land, MacMillan Bloedel property, or other privately-owned land without a permit. Sometimes they catch a treenapper and "charge him under" the Forestry Act.

The whole little limberlost isn't more than 400 feet long — just a pleasant green barrier between this home and the neighbors at the end of the dead-end road.

But even it isn't safe from treenappers.

A Sunday walk showed almost a dozen fresh stumps, some several feet above ground, showing only the choicest top section had been chopped from a well-grown tree.

A dozen trees gone already, and it's still a week or so until the annual surge of tree-seeking.

The RCMP have their own way of dealing with treenappers. They issue stern warnings annually to those who would cut trees on crown land, MacMillan Bloedel property, or other privately-owned land without a permit. Sometimes they catch a treenapper and "charge him under" the Forestry Act.

It's not exactly a curse I'd lay on the tree thieves. But I do hope they never have the pleasure of a flock of feathered friends.

I hope they never know the delight of looking out on a snowy morning to find friend

I would have my own private vengeance. I don't wish harm to those who buy the trees innocently. I hope their lights shine as brightly and their gifts are as many as in other homes.

I don't even wish for compensation for the treenappers. Perhaps they desperately needed the $25 or so that the stolen trees provide.

There is a basic exemption of $1,000 for everyone, plus a $100 exemption.

May the only bird they ever come to know intimately be their Christmas turkey, which is raised without need of a tree for shelter.

And may their Christmas turkey give them indigestion.

pheasant and his wife scratching and feeding in a sheltered clear spot beside the house.

I hope the flickers never add an orange gleam to their rodden winter landscape.

May the robins and goldfinches of summer never lighten their lives.

May swallows never swoop about their homes and nest in the eaves — a sign of happiness within.

And may their Christmas turkey give them indigestion.

Little Gloves for Thumbs Hinder Nocturnal Habit

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What can a teenager do to stop thumb-sucking while asleep?—A.T.

If you do it while you sleep, obviously it's a deeply ingrained habit. How about wearing little gloves? Or make socks for your thumbs out of canvas, tulle, or something, and keep them in place with a cord or ribbon tied around your wrists. This ought to help you break the habit.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am going on 14 and find myself becoming bow-legged. My knees are turn-

Your Good Health

Folks who are going on 14 sometimes become overly critical of themselves and their shapes and imagine things that aren't really happening. If, at your age, there is a real change in the shape of your legs (bone structure, that is) your parents doubtless would notice it, too, and take you forthwith to an orthopedist.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a 17-year-old boy who is well past puberty. I can't understand why some of my organs are so undeveloped. What do you suggest?—M.M.

It seems as though hardly a week goes by that I don't get this question, and not only from teenagers. Yet the fact remains that almost never is there anything really worth worrying about. It's just a common self-doubt.

I'm sure it will make you feel better to consult your doctor. He will keep the visit strictly confidential.

Dear Dr. Molner: If one lipoma tumor is removed will any more appear? Are they dangerous if not operated upon?—G.C.

More lipomas (fatty tumors) may appear but not because of removal of one. Some people are more inclined to have this trouble than others. No, they are not dangerous. They are removed only if they are large enough to be a nuisance or to mar one's appearance.

Ottawa May Order Arbitration

attitude, Mr. Nicholson said. "I am surprised that employers even refused to discuss modifications."

He said, however, he was hopeful of a quick end to the dispute, "because of the mood in the industry and the concern they have shown, I am hopeful that getting the resolution and the bill passed won't take too long."

SET ASIDE

The B.C. Supreme Court set aside Tuesday a default judgment entered against the ILWU a week ago in a suit brought by the employers for breach of contract. The employers claimed a work slowdown by longshoremen in support of the striking foremen constituted a breach of contract.

The court acted after being told a notice of motion for a conditional appearance had been overlooked by the union.

Pressure to end the strike has come from all over Canada, particularly from the Prairies, where grain shipments are being held up because of the bottleneck in Vancouver.

ANY MEANS

The Northwest B.C. Chamber of Commerce added its weight to the pressure over the weekend in a unanimous resolution to the federal government calling for use of "any means necessary" to end the tieup immediately.

Local 2 of the Pulp and Paper

Workers of Canada at Crofton, where 320 men have been laid off as a result of the strike, sent a telegram to Mr. Nicholson Monday night asking him to apply pressure to end the strike.

DECISION MONDAY

With about 2,000 already laid off in the forest industry as a result of the strike, more layoffs threatened.

In Victoria, B.C. Forest Products mill manager Herbert Barnes said a decision on curtailing production at the company's two sawmills will have to be made by Monday.

Mr. Barnes gave crowded storage facilities as the reason for reviewing production rates at the plants, at Point Ellice and the foot of Caribally Road, employing a total of more than 600.

The situation was brighter at the plywood mill owned by the same company, where about 400 people are employed. Good storage facilities have kept production outflows in abeyance.

WORK NEXT WEEK

The same situation applies at Victoria Plywood, but a spokesman for the mill, where 250 people are employed, said continued operation depends on the ability of the Crofton pulp-paper mill to continue to utilize wood chips.

In Port Alberni, MacMillan Bloedel plywood division manager Roy Bondue said the plant would be working next week. He made the statement to contradict an earlier indication the plant would close Friday, after talking with officials in Vancouver Tuesday.

In Vancouver, Ray Haynes, secretary of the 125,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor, lashed out at the maritime employers for their rejection of Labor Minister Nicholson's compromise formula.

"The obstinate and unpromising attitude of the employers' group in this dispute is, in the worst display of irresponsibility seen in many years," he said.

"The lack of editorial comment by our daily papers on the employers' callous disregard for the wishes of their employees and the economic welfare of the country does little to reaffirm our belief in the freedom and impartiality of the press," he said.

In a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson, the employers outlined their stand and said any legislation "should be aimed at terminating present illegal actions by the union."

Mr. Nicholson, just before leaving for Ottawa, said he was "hoping for a miracle."

'Let Yugoslavs Stay in Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker rejected Tuesday an explanation in the Commons on the reasons why two Yugoslav ship-jumpers were ordered deported and another allowed to stay.

He said the statement by Immigration Minister Marchand didn't clarify the picture and the denial of political asylum for the two men was wrong.

SHIP JUMPED

Mr. Marchand was replying to a question raised by Mr. Diefenbaker in the Commons Monday. The Opposition leader asked why Slavko Smoljan and Ante Ivanchev were ordered to leave Canada after jumping ship at Montreal last December while Martin Bilic, who fled his ship earlier at Sorel, Que., was allowed to stay.

SOME LEARNING

Mr. Marchand said Bilic had four years elementary school education, four years of secondary school and a three-year course in auto mechanics. He told the immigration department his father had been killed by the Communists, Mr. Marchand added.

Smolja left school at 15 and Ivanchev at 16 and both took jobs as waiters. Both left Yugoslavia illegally and had an opportunity to seek political asylum when their ship was in Britain if they had wanted to do so, Mr. Marchand said.

Italy Faces Worse Weather

ROME (AP) — Italians waded in the floods, shivered in the snow, slipped in the sleet and plodded through the mud Tuesday with only more bad weather in sight.

After a month of some of the most disastrous weather in Italy's history, Italians were told that another cold wave, more snow and new downpours of rain were moving in from the Atlantic.

There were longer-range predictions that there will be no real letup and that Italy is in for a grim winter.

Neither of these two had produced any evidence they would be persecuted if they were sent back home.

Bilic's training was such that he would have been eligible to come to Canada as an unsponsored immigrant if he had been able to do so, the minister said. "There was a difference between his case and that of the other men."

Mr. Marchand said the government has checked on 22 Yugoslav ship deserters deported from Canada and there was no evidence that any of them had been persecuted after they arrived back home.

TORONTO STAY

He pointed out that Yugoslavs were deported from Canada while Mr. Diefenbaker was prime minister, too.

"Not under the circumstances that have occurred in these cases," Mr. Diefenbaker snapped back.

Ivanchev and Smoljan were ordered deported last Saturday. They have been living in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough and their lawyer has appealed to Prime Minister Pearson to rescind the deportation order.

A Kiss Before Dying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I kissed her and I shot her," said the 72-year-old retired army master sergeant Tuesday to the police he summoned to his apartment building.

On the floor in the foyer in a house coat was the body of master sergeant's wife, Lanehart, 55.

Police quoted Walter Laneheart as relating his wife had been so sick that she had pleaded with him for six days to take her life. She had a fever of 103 degrees. She got word last Thursday she must undergo an operation.

She woke him up at 2 a.m. Tuesday and insisted "let's do it now."

They didn't want to soil their own little two-room apartment. So she put on a red housecoat. He got dressed. They went down in the foyer in the building.

She sat on the marble steps. "Do it now," she begged. "I kissed her and I shot her. I thought I might as well get it over with. I'm not well, either. I don't know how long I have to live. I didn't know what would happen to her if I died."

Lanehart was booked in city prison on a murder charge.

Russian Visit For Philip?

LONDON (AFP) — The possibility of a visit to the Soviet Union by Prince Philip is being discussed in parliamentary circles.

Well-informed sources said members of the Supreme Soviet, who recently visited here, had discreetly sounded out the response an invitation to the prince would receive. The Soviet delegation was headed by the premier of the Russian Soviet Federal Socialist Republic, Gen. Nikolai Voronov.

Political circles said Philip's acceptance of a Soviet invitation would depend on certain conditions, such as the freeing of Briton Gerald Brooke, now in a Soviet prison for anti-Soviet subversive activities. Royal household officials said they had no information on the possible visit.

White Whale Caught

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Soviet whaler in the North Pacific has caught "Son of Moby Dick" — an absolutely white sperm whale with red eyes, Tass reported Tuesday.

The Soviet news agency said the whale—named after the great white whale in Herman Melville's novel—was the third albino ever caught.

The first was harpooned by a Japanese whaler in 1957. The second was killed by Soviet whalers in the North Pacific last year.

Seven Ships Remain

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven ocean-going ships were left in the St. Lawrence Seaway and Great Lakes system at 1 p.m. PST Tuesday but a spokesman for the seaway authority says no trouble is anticipated in getting the ships out before the winter freeze-up.

The seaway will likely be kept open on a day-to-day basis until at least Friday, he said. Official closing date for the seaway this year and last was Dec. 3. This date was extended by 10 days in 1965.

In 20 years, this piece of property will be worth more money—or less. For a long-term risk-free investment, London Life has a suggestion.

Why buying a London Life policy is as good as buying a piece of property (perhaps better)

The value of London Life permanent insurance is not in the lap of the gods. It is guaranteed. You don't need a large down payment. You can borrow money on it. And all the while it protects your family more completely than any other investment.

YOU MAY LIFT YOUR EYEBROWS when we compare a London Life Jubilee policy with a piece of property. But consider these facts:

(1) Investment in a piece of property usually involves some risk. A London Life Jubilee policy avoids the hazards of investment risk. The cash values of your policy are guaranteed in writing.

(2) Start modestly. $13.09 a month isn't very big league in the investment world. But invested in a London Life Jubilee whole life policy it provides protection and builds substantial savings. If you start at age 25, by the time you reach age 65 you will have had $10,000 life insurance protection for your family for 40 years—and you will have built up savings of about $14,170, more than twice as much as you have paid in premiums. This is made up of $5,580 in guaranteed cash value, and $8,590 in accumulated dividends.

(3) The dividends above are based on London Life's current dividend rate. Since the amount allotted to dividends is based on the Company's earnings, dividends cannot be guaranteed. However for many years, London Life's record of earnings has been outstanding, so the return on profit-sharing policies has been excellent.

(4) When you're ready to retire, what other form of property offers you all these choices: at age 65 you can keep right on with your London Life insurance protection; you may stop paying premiums and take a paid-up policy for an adjusted amount; you may take the cash value, plus dividends that have built up—take it in a lump sum, as an income guaranteed for life or as an income for so many years. No other property is so versatile.

(5) With your first premium you create an immediate estate. If you die, the value of your London Life policy is greatly increased—worth much more than you have paid in premiums. Many other properties must be sacrificed when the owner dies.

(6) You can borrow from London Life on the cash value of your policy. Just call the local London Life office or your representative. No credit check. And all the while your policy continues to protect your family.

(7) When you borrow from London Life, the interest rate is comparable with banks' regular lending rates and much lower than personal loan companies'.

(8) A London Life Jubilee policy is a good investment in other ways. It is just as safe as high-grade bonds and much safer than most common stocks. It is particularly attractive because while it earns you money it protects your family.

(9) Property values may rise or fall. But a London Life Jubilee policy grows with dividends and guaranteed values. Dividends are declared each year. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1966 exceed $30 million.

(10) One reason London Life premiums are low is because Canadians, on the average, are long-lived. Dividends to policyowners are high because, among other things, the London Life Insurance Company invests wisely and profitably. (In 1965, the Company earned 5.73% on its investments—after investment expenses.)

(11) No two men have the same insurance needs. That's why your London Life representative has been schooled to tailor insurance to fit your needs. He is trained to give you efficient service for many years to come.

Britain Unable to Grant Independence

Rhodesia Risks Paying Big Price

By HAROLD MORRISON, from London

Jan Smith's regime is likely to pay an enormous price for its refusal to comply with Britain's terms for settlement of the Rhodesian independence crisis.

Not only is Rhodesia faced with an increasing loss of vital export markets, but it has put Britain in the position of being unable to grant it recognition as an independent country prior to establishment of true majority rule there.

At the Commonwealth conference last September, British Prime Minister Wilson refused to accede to African demands that Rhodesia be denied legal independence until its huge black majority is given effective political control. Wilson indicated that Britain would acknowledge Rhodesia's independence before its 4,000,000 Negroes gained control—provided there was sound indication that the Rhodesian people as a whole wanted it that way.

This independence bait turned up again in the so-called working document which Wilson and Premier Smith signed aboard the British cruiser Tiger during the bizarre week-end rendezvous off Gibraltar.

But Wilson had also clearly pledged to Commonwealth prime ministers—and this was spelled out in September's Commonwealth communiqué—that if the white-minority Smith regime failed to agree to the indispensable steps for ending its rebellion, all constitutional proposals would be withdrawn and Britain no longer would be able to propose independence before the blacks had full control of their country.

Smith could possibly squirm out of this position by declaring his country a republic and therefore beyond Britain's reach. But since no country recognizes his illegal independence, the unilateral declaration of a republic may not win him any greater degree of respect in the eyes of the world.

Another possibility is that Rhodesia may declare itself part of some South African alliance. But one Commonwealth source suggested that even South Africa is a bit embarrassed by Smith's tactics and would be glad to rid itself of the Rhodesian burden if it could do so without causing reflection in South Africa's own race-separation policies.

It was significant, the informant said, that even at this late stage South African Prime Minister Balthazar Vorster maintains the deep split between Britain and Rhodesia may still be bridged through negotiations.

The method Britain wishes to follow to stiffen world trade embargoes against Rhodesia undoubtedly will reduce Rhodesian exports but it is unlikely to bring an immediate collapse of the Smith regime. The strangulation will be slow and it may be possible while the squeeze is taking effect for Smith's white regime to revise its attitude.

Britain, of course, is unlikely to escape the economic impact of sanctions. The pound has already come under pressure as a result of the Anglo-Rhodesian settlement collapse.

Smith probably is well aware that Wilson is still eager for some face-saving way of getting off the Rhodesian hook. The prospect of some conference-table settlement still cannot be ruled out entirely.

Sanctions Expected to Fail

By LOUIS B. FLEMING
From United Nations

The UN Security Council will meet Thursday to begin considering new actions against the rebellious white minority government of Rhodesia.

Diplomats here believe that stiff sanctions will be adopted after bitter debate, but the feeling is that the sanctions will fail. George Brown, the British Foreign Secretary, will lead the British delegation asking the council to levy the stern measures against Rhodesia.

Britain will be turning to the United Nations for the solution to a colonial problem after a history of taking such problems into its own hands. This has brought charges of racial discrimination from Africans and Asians, who note that Britain has used force freely against colored peoples in other rebellions but has refused to exercise force against the white rebels in Rhodesia.

Virtually everyone here agrees that the sanctions will fail because South Africa certainly and Portugal probably and Zambia possibly will not support the sanctions and will help keep the Rhodesian colony alive.

Thus, this December round of meetings will lead to a confrontation with South Africa in the succeeding months.

The United Nations already is on a collision course with South Africa through a special session of the General Assembly scheduled for early next year to consider means for bringing South-west Africa, now under South Africa's administration, to independence.

At an Assembly plenary session Tuesday, delegates received the report of the 24-nation special committee on colonialism.

A hint of the African view on Rhodesia came with the report when the committee chairman, Gershon B. O. Collier of Sierra Leone, called for action against Rhodesia under the action of chapter 7 of the UN charter that specifically refers to the provisions for military action.

'I Am An African'

Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia is a mild-mannered but iron-willed fighter for white settler interests.

A Scot by descent, he says of himself: "I am an African—a white African."

The enigmatic Smith was born in Rhodesia 47 years ago, the son of a Scot emigrant butcher and an English mother.

Six feet tall, he was a Second World War hero who was shot down twice as a fighter pilot with the RAF.

He carried the style of the lone airman into politics after the war as, poker-faced and impassive, he maneuvered to keep Rhodesia in the hands of the white man.

A subtle man of considerable self-confidence and an almost unchanging facial expression—the result of wartime skin-grafting operations—he has been accused by his British opponents as being two-faced.

Los Angeles Times

Says his South African-born wife, Janet, a former teacher: "Ian is uncluttered, untrammelled and uncomplicated in his outlook. For some reason his honesty upsets people. His straightforwardness seems to throw British politicians who never quite understand the measure of his sincerity."

After attending school in Rhodesia—he was head prefect, captain of rugby football, cricket and tennis—Smith went to Rhodes University in South Africa. He graduated with a bachelor of commerce degree.

He enlisted in the RAF in 1941 and was soon in the thick of the fight against Nazi Germany. He was shot down in the North Africa campaign and later over Italy.

He spent five months fighting beside Italian partisans before crossing the Alps alone to join the invading Allies in France.

Back in Rhodesia in 1946 Smith took up farming, raising corn and cattle before entering politics in 1948. He owns a 4,500-acre farm and a 6,000-acre cattle ranch.

He says he hates the petty squabbling and back-stabbing of politics.

He has won on land reform, which will begin to take hold next year, and he has pushed through his other major program, the so-called Galleonization of the copper industry. Under it, the government will buy into the big mining companies, largely U.S.-owned, and increase production to furnish the capital for other reforms.

These include a complete revamping of the educational system, which among other departures will provide for a high school concept offering vocational training as well as preparation for the university. Perhaps Frel's approach can work only in Chile of the Latin American countries, for Chile has been described as the least Latin of all. Furthermore, despite an occasional setback and an armed uprising as recently as 1949, Chile has enjoyed comparative serenity.

There have been only two constitutions since the years of confusion that followed independence from Spain, and dictatorships have been both rare and short-lived. There is no military tradition of stepping in when the civilians seem to be foundering, such as happens frequently in Brazil and in neighboring Argentina.

So his primary goal is to make fundamental and irreversible changes during his five-year hold on the presidency, changes that will make it impossible to abandon the revolution.

Chilean Experiment Unique

'Revolution with Liberty'

By FRANCIS B. KENT
From Santiago

As revolutions go, the experiment under way in Chile may be unique. There is no strutting tyrant, no gunfire in the streets, no blood purge. It is, nonetheless, an authentic revolution, in the words of its author, Eduardo Frei Montalva, a "revolution with liberty."

If it succeeds, and Frei has no doubt that it will, Chile will have accomplished peacefully what no Latin American dictator has been able to do with naked force. And he will have done it through the democratic process.

The first Christian Democrat ever elected to the presidency of any Latin American country, Frei came to office in 1964 with a staggering collection of reform measures, proposals calculated to telescope the industrial revolution into two relatively short decades.

Two years after his inauguration, in the face of what often seemed to be insurmountable obstacles, he has seen much of his program written into law. In terms of his far-reaching aims, it is a modest beginning, but in terms of Latin America and the problems inherent in this part of the world, it is a remarkable accomplishment.

What Frei wants, in essence, is to reshape every facet of Chilean life: its society, economy and politics. He wants to extend a decent standard of living to all, including the impoverished squallid who labors for pennies on the great estates of the wealthy. To expand industrial growth and increase farm production. Above all, to give every Chilean a voice in local and national affairs.

This is a large order in a nation which has been dominated from the outset by a wealthy minority, as are most nations of Latin America, and doubly so in a nation whose economy has depended almost exclusively on the mining of minerals.

But as Frei is so fond of saying, "It is one thing to talk, to give speeches. It is another thing to do the job."

He is doing the job, painfully slowly in some instances and against an opposition in congress. But like the young, dedicated technicians he was surrounded himself with, he shows no sign of wearying.

What Frei has accomplished has not gone unnoticed by his mentors in Europe. Jacques Maritain, the French philosopher, has described the Chilean experience as the "only example of an authentic Christian revolution" in the world today.

Moreover, Christian Democratic precepts are taking root elsewhere in Latin America, notably in Venezuela, Peru and Costa Rica. According to Maluenda, Chile's Christian Democrats are in close contact with their counterparts abroad. Earlier this year delegates from several Latin American countries met in Peru to discuss Christian Democratic theories.

The head of Frei's human development program known as Promoción Popular, says simply: "We are sowing a bomb and we know it. Social conditions are so terrible as to make it unbelievable that we've been able to maintain a democracy."

With Promoción Popular, Frei is seeking to recast the nation's social structure, to bring everybody into the decision-making process and give everybody a fair share of the fruits he hopes to harvest through industrial and agricultural growth.

He has taken much of the wind out of Chile's Marxist. He has confused both the Communists and the Socialists, who on some issues stand farther to the left than the Communists themselves. Both have been reduced to saying they would do it all faster, with less regard for the wealthy.

Frei is not the first reform-minded leader in Chile's history. Bernardo O'Higgins, the hero of independence in 1818 and the nation's first chief executive, also tried to break up the huge farms. He failed, as did others over the years.

But Frei has a different approach. He talks directly and persuasively to the people, in language the most backward peasant can understand.

He has won on land reform, which will begin to take hold next year, and he has pushed through his other major program, the so-called Galleonization of the copper industry. Under it, the government will buy into the big mining companies, largely U.S.-owned, and increase production to furnish the capital for other reforms.

These include a complete revamping of the educational system, which among other departures will provide for a high school concept offering vocational training as well as preparation for the university.

Perhaps Frei's approach can work only in Chile of the Latin American countries, for Chile has been described as the least Latin of all. Furthermore, despite an occasional setback and an armed uprising as recently as 1949, Chile has enjoyed comparative serenity.

There have been only two constitutions since the years of confusion that followed independence from Spain, and dictatorships have been both rare and short-lived. There is no military tradition of stepping in when the civilians seem to be foundering, such as happens frequently in Brazil and in neighboring Argentina.

So his primary goal is to make fundamental and irreversible changes during his five-year hold on the presidency, changes that will make it impossible to abandon the revolution.

NEW WESTMINSTER — Damages of $9,740 have been awarded to a pretty blonde who says she can no longer wear a bikini because of a scar on her right thigh.

Joanna Thomas, 33, won the award in an action against Royal Columbia Hospital, where an operating room accident in October, 1962, caused extensive burns to her leg.

She was undergoing a back operation when a cauterizer caused burns that left a scar by 13-inch scar on her leg.

A defence lawyer suggested there were perhaps other styles of swim wear that would cover the scar. "But I'm still young," Mrs. Thomas replied. She was awarded $8,250 damages including compensation for time lost at work and $1,490 special damages. Her husband was awarded $500 special damages.

Teeth Not Mottled

A Prince George dentist has denied there is mottling of the tooth enamel among people who drink that city's fluoridated water.

The word came in a telegram from Dr. Dennis Waller, former president of the B.C. Dental Society. Prince George's water has been fluoridated since 1955.

Dr. H. R. Carter of Victoria queried Dr. Waller after an anti-fluoridationist here said children in the northern city were getting mottled teeth.

LETTER TO EDITOR

H. S. Thullier, spokesman for a group that is opposing the referendum which will be taken in Oak Bay Saturday, said in a letter to the editor:

"Already children at Prince George are getting mottled teeth, fluoridated some seven years ago. The reason is that some people concentrate the fluoride in their systems much more than others."

Dr. Waller's reply: "Surveys and observations indicate no detectable enamel mottling in Prince George."

UNIVERSITY STAND

Dr. Carter also queried the department of biochemistry of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., on its fluoridation stand.

The reply: "We have been misquoted regarding our position on fluoridation. Most members of this department are in fact strongly in favor of fluoridation."

Pep-Up Pill Needed for Saanich Race

Has anyone got a pep-up pill for Saanich's election campaign?

If there is such a pill, it's being served, possibly for the all-candidate forum at 8 p.m. today in Royal Oak Junior Secondary, or Thursday night's forum at Mount View senior secondary school.

The contest among seven candidates for four seats on Saanich council has been dull compared to previous years, probably because the reeveship isn't at stake or there are no referendums.

So far, the track is smooth and fast but a storm in the next couple of days could make it muddy.

Here are the seven candidates for council, with their objectives:

Douglas Lorne Brown, a purchasing agent for Oak Bay, lives at 3895 Seaford in Saanich. He wants no time wasted on implementation of the survey of hospital needs and the area sewage study. The Capital Improvement District Commission should beautify the top of Mount Tolmie.

Brown

Lum

Speller

Passmore

Todd

Newberry

He wants local control to be preserved, something which would preserve individual pride in each community.

Raymond Hayes, 3751 Savannah, is an insulator at HMC Dockyard. He wants hospitals financed through the province's share of income tax, regional implementation of the sewer study, and open ditches covered in Saanich's sewer areas.

Mr. Hayes suggests money for regional sewers be assessed on a per-capita basis.

Edward L. G. Lum, a motel operator, is seeking his second, two-year term on Saanich council. He says the five-year hospital financing plan proposed by council is only a stop-gap measure until a long-term solution is found.

He'd like to see long-term federal money available for the regional sewage program and feels that in the past two years Saanich has done more than ever to beautify the municipality.

Alan Newberry, 4274 Parkside, a school principal, is completing his first, one-year term on council. While hospitals are a provincial responsibility, a local contribution up to 10 per cent would maintain administrative control.

He wants more measures to prevent further pollution from sewage and correction of the present hazards.

Leslie Passmore, 2873 Austin, is a shipyard storeman who has served as Saanich reeve, councillor, school trustee and police commissioner at different times since 1936.

He says hospitals are a provincial matter but until B.C. sees its obligation, the municipalities should provide a fixed annual sum. He's anxious to see Saanich's capital budget approved last year, carried through.

Lionel Speller, 3628 Saanich, is a chauffeur at the Veterans' Hospital. He wants the Regional Board and the Victoria Inter-Municipal Committee to submit their solutions to hospital and sewage problems as soon as possible.

Among other things, he wants magistrate's court returned to Saanich.

Harold Todd, a letter carrier who is completing his ninth term as councillor, lives at 1402 An-ment should contribute more to Victoria sewer survey and on the question of beautification.

He also wants the regional board to carry out the Greater planted.

Host Responsible For Serving Mixer Straight

It is the responsibility of the host to see that guests have a choice of non-alcoholic beverages at any social engagements, according to Howard Hicken, field services health educator for the B.C. Alcoholism Foundation.

This week is Alcohol Information Week in B.C., and Mr. Hicken said the non-drinker should understand that to drink or not to drink is a personal choice.

BIG FACTOR

Mr. Hicken said it has been conservatively estimated that alcohol is a factor in 40 per cent of accidents in B.C. "This deadly combination of drinking and driving may have caused damage amounting to some $25,000,000, and a further $10,000,000 for property damage last year."

BAD GAMBLE

"A person who drinks and drives is playing Russian roulette with his own life and the lives of other people," he added.

He pointed out that under a new clause in the Motor Vehicles Act, a drinking driver can (when the amendment becomes operational) have his licence suspended for 24 hours, thus removing a potential hazard from behind the wheel of a car as a preventative measure.

Goodwill Closes For Funeral

Goodwill Rehabilitation Centre on Bay, and the Goodwill store on Yates will close their doors from 1:30 p.m. today in remembrance of the late store manager, James A. Gibbs.

Mr. Gibbs died Sunday. His funeral will be held at 3:30 p.m. today at McCall Bros. Chapel, 1460 Vancouver.

The Goodwill Christmas party arranged for all workers at the store and rehabilitation centre will go ahead as planned Friday evening.

Here's A "Frank Message" From "FRANK HUNTER" INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

DEAR FRIENDS:

On Saturday you must choose a man to be Mayor of Victoria for the remaining half of the late Mr. Toone's two-year term.

Friends have suggested that because of my unusual background of community service and experience in civic office I am specially qualified and well-fitted to be Mayor for Canada's Centennial year to the benefit of our City and our People.

Hence my bid for that high office. I am entirely independent and unattached, and I am not sponsored by any committee, group, establishment or other organization of any kind whatsoever. I am FOR every citizen in Victoria.

I have no campaign fund and I have not by myself or any other person or committee, solicited anyone for even a 5-cent piece toward my election campaign expenses.

No doubt, you know that only a year ago I retired with official commendation and compliment after 38 years as City Clerk (Secretary of the Municipal Corporation) of Victoria; therefore, I am free to devote full time to the duties of Mayor.

My health is good. I keep fit with plenty of vigorous exercise which includes 2 or 3-mile runs nearly every morning from my home on Dallas Road and along the waterfront. This is supplemented with fast walks and hiking, and with lake swimming until the middle of November. Always athletic, I used to row hard in the shells of the old James Bay Athletic Association, enjoyed cricket, baseball and soccer, and played intensively basketball, handball and tennis.

In his early days my father, Captain James Hunter, a native of Shetland Islands, sailed "before the mast" on windjammers. Later he was a sea captain on this coast. His last command was the S.S. "Gray" of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation.

The family home was always in Victoria, and I was born in James Bay, the fourth child in a family of five.

I have continued to reside here and I am proud to be a native son and homeowner of this most delightful city.

I attended the Kingston Street and South Park Schools, and graduated from Victoria High with honors. Following a short period seafaring I was employed in the Victoria City Hall, and there received promotions which gave me the position of City Clerk at the age of twenty-six.

I have been through the years, and still am, quite active in many fields.

My friends, I stand on my record of community service and experience with the City in dealing with a great variety of matters and with persons from all walks of life, including Royalty, Governors-General, Prime Ministers, Ambassadors and many other distinguished personages.

It would be my purpose and determination to give the same quality of service as Mayor that I gave as City Clerk.

It would be a great honour, indeed, for me to be Victoria's Centennial Mayor.

Sincerely,
FRANK HUNTER.

Baird Suffers Celebration Overdose

Victoria is getting an overdose of celebrations, Ald. Robert Baird declared Tuesday. He is "getting a nervous breakdown" over the whole celebration binge the city seems to be on, he said.

Protesting the proposed expenditure of $17,500 for illuminated maple leaf symbols and flower tubes to be placed on Government and Douglas Streets during 1967, Centennial Year, Ald. Baird said that it was far too much money to spend. The flower tubes were all right but he didn't think the illuminated symbols would be worth the $12,000 they would cost. "It seems to me we're getting a big overdose of celebrations. They're like liquor or anything else — you can get too much of them — and I, for one, have just about reached that point."

Ald. Cecil Parrott thought the use of the symbols and flower tubes, all properly illuminated, would be an excellent idea.

OLD BALLOONS?
"What have we done in past years?" he asked.

"Why don't we go back to the old balloons?" asked City Treasurer James Bramley.

recalling the 1938 fiasco when decorative, inflated balloons were used to adorn the city — and seemed to be in a permanent state of deflation. Victoria certainly had to do something, inasmuch as it was the provincial capital, and not only the people of the city but the tourists would be expecting some sort of decoration, Ald. Hugh Stephen observed.

COURSE APPROVED
He suggested that the city go ahead with the plan to place 66 concrete flower tubes along the streets in the business section and leave the illuminated maple leaf symbols for further study.

This course was approved by the committee.

Aldermen gave a green light and a "thank-you" to the IODE, which will build a viewing shelter on Dallas Road near Clover Point as its centennial project. The club will begin construction early in 1967.

NEXT PHASE
Unanimously and without comment, aldermen turned down the suggestion which emanated from Saanich Coun.

Ed Lum following a recent tour by the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee. Such a scheme would not conform with the city's stated intention to keep its park areas in as natural a state as possible. Aldermen were told that another phase of the capital budget program, which will go into effect in 1967, will include

Old Paintings Badly Slashed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A huge mural depicting the signing of the U.S. constitution and three other historical paintings were badly slashed Tuesday by a scissor-wielding man.

The man was arrested in the building on a tip by a workman who said he spotted him in the act of slashing one of the paintings, all hung in an area near the entrance to the house galleries.

All four paintings were severely damaged, but no estimate was made of the loss or whether they could be restored. Arrested and charged with destruction of government property was a man identified as George Palakian.

No motive was given for the slashing, but Powell told reporters: "He said he was mad."

A Palakian was being led to a police car from the capitol, he gave incoherent answers to reporters who asked why he did it.

At one point, he replied: "Because I don't want to die in hunger." He also called to reporters: "Is this a capitalist or a communist country?"

The 20-by-30 foot Signing of the Constitution was commissioned by congress in 1939 at a cost of $30,000, but the three smaller paintings were much older. All were acquired almost 100 years ago.

Driver 'Good'

A Saanich man is reported in fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering from head injuries received in a two-car collision at Quadra and Tattersall about 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Frank Slater, 51, of 3940 Blenheim, was taken to hospital by Saanich fire department ambulance along with Mrs. Slater who was treated and released.

Police identified Mr. Slater as driver of one car and Mrs. Jessie Basham, 1808 San Pedro, as driver of the other.

An earlier collision Tuesday morning between a motorcycle and a car driven by Joseph Trodden, 736 Kings, outside the driveway at the Royal Jubilee Hospital at Davie sent motorcyclist Joel Connor, 1949 Wilmot, to be treated in Jubilee's emergency ward for minor leg injuries.

The Goodwill Enterprises Store on Yates Street and the Rehabilitation Centre on Bay Street will close on Wednesday afternoon, December 7th, from 1 o'clock, as a tribute to the late James A. Gibbs, store manager.

25 Years Ago Today Island Became War Front

Shuttered City Shuddered in Pacific Gloom

By JERRY ROULTREE

Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941 is an ominous date in history books. It was just 25 years ago that the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian Islands, and followed up, a few hours later, with a formal declaration of war against the United States and Great Britain.

What was that day like? It's a date in history that, for many, is lodged permanently and indelibly in the mind's archives.

One of Many

For others, younger, it is simply one date among many that spell out the turmoil of the Second World War.

Quoted "The Daily Mail in London" the day after the attack:

"Not even Hitler has yet achieved the infamy of a stab in the back while his envoys were still ostensibly negotiating terms of an agreement with his intended victim."

Honolulu First

First bombs fell on Honolulu, Pearl Harbor, and Hickam Field. Later, Japanese bombs rained on Guam and portions of the Philippines.

Frederick Knight, a former resident of Singapore, arrived in Victoria the day after the bombing at Pearl Harbor to announce that he considered Britain's Metayan stronghold "impregnable."

West coast radio stations went off the air.

According to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, "It was reported on good authority that a Japanese flight of planes was coming in on the west coast; we did not want them to ride in on our beam."

Blackout was imposed throughout Victoria, and city stores did a roaring trade in black material for curtains. Emergency sessions of municipal councils were held, and Saanich and Victoria even forgot their differences and agreed that men from both centres would be able to join an area-wide ARP service.

On the women's page of the Colonist for that date, Mrs. Phyllis G. Turner was given space for her appointment as administrator of oils and fats by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board—first time the post had gone to a woman. She later married Frank M. Dugwood, who served as B.C.'s lieutenant-governor from 1953 to 1960.

The Plume Shop of Yates Street was advertising its Christmas suggestions, offering "high grade dresses" for $3.95 each.

At the meeting of the Canadian Club, talk of course revolved around the turn of events in the Pacific. As lunch-time speaker, Surgeon-Comdr. D. M. Beaton told club members "what fun it was" to be bombed and missed by the Italians during his service aboard HMS Warspite.

your husband's old suit can be remodelled to fit you." Dugwood and Blondie looked a little younger in those years, and that particular day Dugwood marched home with a toy tank for his son Alexander—an appropriate gift, considering the occasion.

Nearest Thing

The events of Dec. 7, 1941, and the days immediately following, set Victoria on edge. The war had come to the Pacific, and local residents were worried.

But there was no need for worry.

Victoria never got into the war—though certainly Victorians did.

Nearest thing to it came on June 20, 1942, when the light-house at Esquimalt Point was shelled by a Japanese sub. Little damage was done, although 25 shells were fired—but at least Vancouver Island could show a scar or two resulting from the war with the Japanese.

Young Skipper Runs Santa's Island Trip

By BOB PETHICK

When the COGS Cammell puts to sea today on its round-the-island lighthouse Christmas supply trip, it seems fitting that the Coast Guard's youngest skipper will be in command.

Twenty-nine-year-old Art Mountain, a veteran of 13 years' service with the Coast Guard will have the con on the gift-carrying trip.

For the first time this year, the ship will carry a Santa Claus in the form of second steward George Thomas, who will be helicoptered ashore at light houses where there are children to wish a Merry Christmas and bring small presents.

And like most of the crew who originally thought of the idea, Capt. Mountain is looking forward to the trip.

Capt. Mountain, who is regular chief mate on the Cammell, has been connected with the department of transport on the Coast Guard most of his life.

BORN ON STATION

His father, Fred Mountain, is keeper of the lighthouse at Sheringham Point. Capt. Mountain was born on a light station on Saturna Island.

Members of the Mountain family are no strangers to the sea. Capt. Mountain's grandfather sailed the Bering Sea seal hunting back in the 1880s.

Following in these footsteps, Capt. Mountain was aboard the Cammell as mate last summer when she passed through the Bering Sea under Capt. John Strand, heading for the Arctic.

At this time of year, weather leaves a lot to be desired, but most of the goods to be delivered can be freighted from the ship by helicopter.

And everything ought to run at peak efficiency, because Capt. Mountain and his crew have their own Christmas plans, and they won't want to be late getting back.

Victoria Schools

'So Much Left To Teachers'

Problem children in one California centre get the attention of a whole team of travelling child specialists, a University of Victoria lecturer reported Tuesday.

Ruth Burg, former school psychologist in northern Santa Barbara County, outlined the facilities available there for diagnosing and treating problem children.

Mrs. Burg is now a visiting lecturer in the university's faculty of education.

VISITED BY TEAM

Schools she worked with are visited regularly by a team headed by a pediatrician and including a clinical psychologist, nurse, social worker and speech therapist, said Mrs. Burg.

It's very enlightening to see how a team like this can put things together, and how much they can learn about a child."

CONSULTATION

Testing is followed by consultation with parents.

"Often we get down to brass tacks and find out what's wrong," said Mrs. Burg.

There are special classes for the physically handicapped, brain-damaged, educable retarded and severely retarded children.

NO PROOF

Mrs. Burg said she couldn't prove the value of the program in dollars.

"If it weren't available, I'm sure the crime rate would be much higher," she added.

"This is one thing I find so strange about your schools—that so much is left to the teacher."

Prizes Await Essays

Canada's centennial will provide a chance for Greater Victoria school children to earn $750 in prize money by writing essays about their country.

The contest, announced Tuesday, is being sponsored by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

Ten prizes of $15 each will be awarded to elementary entrants (grades four to seven) on the topic of an achievement of a great Canadian of the past century.

Another 10 prizes of $25 each will go to entrants in grades 8 to 10 writing on Canada—land of contrasts.

The 10 best essays in the senior section (grades 11 and 12) will win $35 each. Their topic is Canada's role in the United Nations.

Funeral Thursday For Traffic Victim

Funeral service will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday at McCall Bros. chapel, 1400 Vancouver, for Douglas Alfred Richards, 16, one of two boys killed Sunday in a traffic accident near Union Bay.

A student at S. J. Willis Junior Secondary School, he was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas William Richards, 445 Gorge Road East.

He is survived by four sisters and three brothers.

The other boy killed at the same time, while the pair walked on the highway hitchhiking, was Keith Austin Kingsley Peters, 15, of Nanaimo.

The two were struck in pouring rain by a car that veered to their side of the road to overtake other traffic.

Rhodesia Crisis Weakens Pound

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Rhodesia's rejection of the British formula for ending the independence crisis had a profound effect on London markets Tuesday. The Bank of England had to step in twice to support the pound and stock prices fell sharply.

The failure in Africa has upset Britain's hopes of a quick trading recovery, and the pound fell in New York to a near-crisis level of $2.78 27-32 despite official support.

Gilt edged (government) stocks were harder hit than common shares on the London Stock Market.

METAL PRICE UP

On the other hand prices went up in the metal exchanges.

Copper rose four cents a pound to 57, as dealers felt the locking of the Rhodesian door would further hamper movement of copper from Zambia. Prices for lead and zinc rose after having been in weak demand for several weeks. Lead rose by more than ten shilling a ton.

The feeling is that Britain has not only lost its valuable Rhodesian market but may also have hurt its trade with South Africa, by calling for world-wide sanctions against the breakaway colony.

RECORD GRAPE CROP

Grape growing is one of the Okanagan's best economic prospects according to Lloyd Schmidt, manager of the Beau Sejour vineyard overlooking Okanagan Lake.

Mr. Schmidt says the vineyard owned by the Victoria wine making firm of Growers Wine, had a record crop of 400 tons this year — more than double the amount ever taken from a single Okanagan vineyard in the past.

GRAPE FUTURE

With new hybrids developed over the past 15 years now coming into production, Okanagan grapes in the future may well excel those grown elsewhere in North America or Europe.

"The Okanagan has always had the climatic pattern to grow the best grapes," says Schmidt.

"Now we have the varieties and the know-how to do it," he admitted. "The old kitchen is now the store room for our plans; the dance floor is now our drawing room."

One thing for sure. The Go, gos would not recognize the place any longer.

LOSS ON BUILDING

Sun Publishing Company wrote off a loss of $208,301 on its old publishing building in Vancouver during the fiscal year ended Aug. 31.

Because of this C. M. Delbridge, chairman, said the net profit for the year declined 24 per cent to $567,483 from $883,569 in the previous fiscal year.

Net income was roughly the same as a year ago at $875,784. Income from dividends of Pacific Press, which Sun owns 50 per cent, rose $44,000 to $529,000 from a year ago.

GO-GO CONVERSION

The adzed-beamed white walled interior of what was not so long ago one of Victoria's night spots is now covered with aerial maps of British Columbia; technical charts and diplomas; and the lounge chairs and dance band stage are now replaced by austere business desks and draughtsmen's tables.

The old bright spot on Gordon Street is now the office of the consulting engineering firm of Russell E. Potter and Associates Ltd.

The other night president Potter asked along some of his business acquaintances to come

Lights 'On' in Athletic Park

Sports fans who have been worried about the lack of floodlighting in the renewal of Royal Athletic Park can relax. The lights are going in. The public works committee decided Tuesday to recommend to city council that the original plan to install professional-type floodlights in the park be proceeded with. The cost will be about $85,000.

It was then decided to proceed with the lighting only when enough funds accumulated in the city's land sale tax fund to meet the cost.

Old Show Starts a New Run

It started all over again yesterday in New York, where Cassius Clay signed to defend his world heavyweight boxing championship against Ernie Terrell on Feb. 6 in Houston. Ink wasn't dry on contract before Clay went into his familiar act and Terrell co-operated by saying the things that made him as good a straight man as any. If you're not certain, that's the champion with the finger out. — (AP)

Mikita Still Top Scorer But Rangers' Making Gains

Chicago's Stan Mikita is out making, has brought him 39 from all by himself but Na- merited assists. Bernie Goffron is making a success of his comeback with four goals and 15 assists and has helped linemate Reg Fleming, normally known only as a club policeman and a candidate for "bad-man" honors, to a fine start of nine goals and eight assists. In between the latter two Canadians, with 11 goals and seven assists, is Don Marshall.

Other Rangers in the top 15 are Rod Gilbert (8-8) and Earl Ingebritsen (5-11).

Marshall is tied with Mikita and Ken Wharram of Chicago in goals scored and Mikita leads in assists with 21. Fleming leads in penalties with 76 minutes.

Canadians have been the best defensively, allowing only 2.56 goals a game, and have in Charlie Hodge the individual goaltending leader. Hodge has permitted only 13 goals in seven games for a 1.95 average.

Glenn Hall of Chicago, with 38 goals against in nine games, is next with a 2.00 average. Then it's Toronto's Terry Sawchuk with 2.11 with 24 goals against in 11 games.

Ed Giacomin of New York leads in shutouts with three. Player with 14 or more points:

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Joe Tanner of the Victoria Bowmen's Club is the first archer of that group to shoot a deer with bow and arrow and he was the only archer to bag a deer during British Columbia's first exclusive hunting season for archers.

Tanner was one of at least 17 archers who hunted the Sayward Forest area last week and although others were able to get shots at deer he was the only one to score. Veteran tracker Bill Hall, also of Victoria, assisted him in tracking his deer.

Of the 17 archers, nine were from the Victoria Bowmen's Club and three from Seaview Archers of Victoria. Some hunted only the weekend, but Tanner, Fred Usher, Hall, Dave Hardy and Jamie Cameron, all of Victoria, spent a full week in the Sayward Forest and they reported seeing plenty of deer.

They found that deer hunting was a lot different from target archery. Several arrows were deflected by tree leaves and went wide of their mark, where if they had been bullets they would have gone straight to their mark.

Most of the archers have been rifle shooters, but have turned to the more challenging form of hunting — with bow and arrow.

The archers were happy to have their own exclusive season without having to worry about gunfire, but they would prefer to have their bow and arrow season before the regular hunting season — before the deer are spooked. Most places in the United States which have special archery season have them before the regular season.

"But we aren't complaining. We are happy to have got a start on bow and arrow hunting," says Usher.

They camped in a trailer, a camper and a tent and they found the weather bitterly cold for hunting and camping out. They had difficulty keeping in dry clothes.

They were in know for two days, "but the fact it snowed showed us by the tracks the amazing number of deer in the area," reports Usher.

On the most blustery and rainy day they saw five deer in one group, but branches and leaves deflected their shots. They saw plenty of ruffed grouse, but didn't realize they are still in season until Dec. 18. Only the blues are now out of season.

"We learned some lessons this first season. If we have to hunt in that kind of weather again we will take along more dry clothes," Usher said. "The Sayward Forest area is wonderful for bow and arrow hunting. We are very pleased with that choice."

Fish and wildlife branch checks on Vancouver Island this hunting season show that during the buck season this year hunter success was better in all areas than in 1965. Antlerless season hunter success ended up much the same this year as last, but in most areas more deer and more hunters were checked through game checks than last year, despite the fact antlerless season was one week shorter this year.

In season-long checks at Northwest Bay the harvest was shown as 185.

At Cowichan the recorded harvest was 429 (64 per cent) bucks, 118 (17.5 per cent) does, 124 (18.5 per cent) fawns, for 671 deer.

In those areas, 27 per cent of the buck kill was opening weekend (two days), 30 per cent was during the remainder of the buck season weekend (17 days) and 43 per cent was on antlerless weekends (seven days).

Final totals from checks compared with 1965: Northwest Bay, 1966 — 3,495 hunters, 305 deer, 8.7 per cent success; 1965 — 3,611 hunters, 325 deer, 9 per cent success. Copper Canyon, 1966 — 2,206 hunters, 251 deer, 11.4 per cent success; 1965 — 2,078 hunters, 176 deer, 8.5 per cent success. Campbell River, 1966 — 3,833 hunters, 1,279 deer, 32.3 per cent success; 1965 — 1,381 hunters, 1,894 deer, 28.4 per cent success. Ash River, Port Alberni, 1966 — 1,904 hunters, 232 deer, 15.3 per cent success; 1965 — 1,635 hunters, 209 deer, 12.8 per cent success. Victoria area, 1966 — 2,051 hunters, 247 deer, 12 per cent success; 1965 — 1,734 hunters, 182 deer, 10.5 per cent success. Cowichan Lake Road, 1966 — 4,901 hunters, 671 deer, 13.7 per cent success; 1965 — no check at that point.

Of the six areas only two — Cowichan Lake and Northwest Bay were operated every weekend of hunting season, 26 days. The rest were open on opening weekend and during antlerless season, nine days, but those nine days accounted for 80 per cent of the harvest in Northwest Bay and Cowichan.

We are in trouble with Chinook Club president Ray Sidaway. We said Friday friends of Chinook Club members could fish in the first Chinook Club winter spring derby Dec. 10, daybreak to noon. They can't. The derby is only open to Chinook Club members. The $1 entry fee will be used for fishing and hidden weight prizes.

Victoria One of Last Outposts Of Sunday Laws—Or Is It?

By BRIAN DOHERTY

One of the lesser issues in the upcoming municipal elections is Sunday sport, a misnomer if ever there was one.

Some candidates favor it, others are firmly opposed. But what does Sunday sport really mean?

It means, simply, that sports organizations would be permitted to charge admission to the entertainment they present. And this would give the sports bodies a tremendous boost.

Take, for example, the suggestion of Len Anderson, publicity man for O'Keefe's Soccer Club. "We would marry it if we could," he replied when asked for O'Keefe's feelings toward Sunday sport.

Pilot's Death Grounds Starfighters

BOON (Reuters)—The West German Air Force Tuesday grounded its crash-plagued fleet of U.S.-designed Starfighter jet aircraft pending investigations into the cause of the 65th Starfighter crash last week, an air force spokesman announced.

The crash brought to 37 the toll of pilots killed since 1961 when the air force took delivery of the supersonic aircraft.

Chinese Boycott Meeting

MOSCOW (UPI)—Chinese diplomats walked out of a Kremlin meeting Tuesday to protest Soviet remarks critical to Mao Tse-tung, Chinese Communist party chairman. At the same meeting, a reference to the name of Stalin brought a minute's applause from 6,000 persons in the audience.

The Chinese walkout was the third such incident here in the last month.

Tuesday they walked out of ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary of the successful defence of Moscow from Nazi attack during the Second World War.

CHIEF CRITICAL

Nikolai G. Yegorychev, the Moscow Communist party chief, included in his speech in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses a restatement of recent Soviet criticism of China.

"Of late," Yegorychev said, "Mao Tse-tung and his group have been following a great power line aimed at undermining the unity of the countries of socialism, of the entire world Communist movement."

STALIN PRAISED

The mention of Stalin was the third time since May, 1965, that his name had been brought up in a major address by a Soviet leader and underscored a trend of returning the late dictator's once unmentionable name to the history books.

Yegorychev brought it up in naming Soviet military leaders of the defence of Moscow in the Second World War.

Weather 'Moonlet' Launched

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The United States Tuesday night orbited a versatile new weather observer-broadcast relay satellite designed to produce man-in-the-street benefits from space science.

The multi-purpose moonlet, called the Application Technology Satellite, zoomed into a preliminary egg-shaped path 23 minutes after launch. It is now waiting until this afternoon for a push into its final "stationary" orbit 22,300 miles above the Pacific Ocean.

From that vantage point, the 775-pound satellite will be able to relay color television, voice and teletype messages between three continents, "talk" to airplanes in flight and maintain a constant watch on one-third of the world's weather.

The glittering satellite, forerunner of future weather eyes and radio relay stations, began its complicated mission at 9:12 p.m., when an Atlas-Agena rocket hurled it into the dark, cloudy sky toward a preliminary looping orbit.

Officers Quell Mutiny

BRISBANE (Reuters)—The officers of a Dutch freighter opened fire on mutinous Chinese seamen who tried to storm the bridge with hatchets, knives and crowbars while in this Australian port Tuesday.

Four Chinese seamen were taken to hospital with leg wounds and 40 police cordoned off the wharf where the 6,429-ton freighter Strait Malakka was unloading.

India to Vote

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Elections for a new parliament and president will be held next Feb. 15, the Indian government says. Under the Indian constitution, the president is elected by both houses of parliament and state legislatures.

Telephone Deal Approved

The provincial cabinet Tuesday approved a Public Utilities Commission order authorizing transfer of the controlling interest of the shares of Okanagan Telephone Co. to B.C. Telephone Co.

A PUC order on Dec. 2 noted that there was no opposition to the transfer of shares.

It also stated that Canada Trust Company, the registration and transfer agency, had received on Nov. 16 letters of acceptance and transmittal to the B.C. Telephone Co. of not less than .95 per cent of the holders of common shares of the Okanagan Telephone Co.

Victoria's Classes Largest

Greater Victoria schools had the largest classes in the province last year, according to a study released Monday by the Association of Women Educators.

Both elementary schools and the over-all system had biggest classes, said the report issued by Mrs. C. Y. Brown, vice-president of the Victoria branch of AWE.

John Porteous, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, said the district would be working for smaller classes in primary schools next fall.

DEPARTMENT REPORT
The AWE study was based on statistics in the 1964-65 report of the B.C. department of education.

In elementary schools there was an average of 38.36 pupils per classroom and a ratio of 35.69 pupils for every teacher.

"GREAT NEED"
In the summary of all schools, Greater Victoria had 36.03 pupils for the average classroom and 29.23 pupils per teacher, according to the report.

"There is a great need and we should do everything possible to reduce large classes in primary schools," commented Mr. Porteous.

"I'm sure something will be done next fall."

Challenge Proves Popular

B.C. Centennial Committee chairman L. J. Wallace said Tuesday the provincial centenary book Challenge in Abundance has become a best seller.

"Purchase of more than 30,000 copies is assured barely two weeks after publication date," he said.

A best seller in Canada is a hard-cover book with sales of 10,000 or more copies, and in the United States one with sales of 25,000 copies.

The book, which sells for $2.95, is available at most retail book outlets.

More Court After Cup

VANCOUVER (CP) — An extra court will be run for the next two weeks at Vancouver magistrate's court in an effort to clear the backlog of cases left by Grey Cup celebrations. Deputy city prosecutor Roland Borman said the special court will be held regularly for at least two weeks.

'Only One Issue'

Fluoride Foes Draw Fire On Research

There is evidence that Oak Bay's anti-fluoridationists have not seriously thought about their objectives or the documentation for their arguments, Dr. Harold R. Carter said Tuesday night.

They have declared their interests are the preservation of individual rights and the elimination of things which threaten community health, said the Oak Bay councillor.

He asked: "If they're interested in individual rights, why haven't they behaved as ombudsmen and pounded the table for 'little guys' on the other issues?"

"If they're interested in community health problems, why haven't they spoken for people who are fed up with Victoria's polluted beaches?"

He said it seems the individual rights association of Greater Victoria has been silent on everything except fluoridation.

"We are in favor of each individual being able to decide for themselves if they wish to use fluorides or any other drug or not," says H. S. Thullier, public relations chairman of the IFA.

"Freedom of choice is the democratic right of each individual, handed down since Magna Carta."

Victoria lawyer Mrs. Marney Stevenson, a member of the Civil Liberties Union, disagrees. "Fluoridation is no more an infringement of individual rights than sewers and other public health measures," she said.

"Everybody has to participate in them and everybody has to pay for them."

Two Sides Speak

At an IRA-sponsored public meeting Monday night, retired naturopath Leslie C. Lambert, 5368 Ruston, claimed fluorides permeate body parts and finally cause death. They mottle teeth and tend to produce cancer, he added.

From the other side, come voices such as these:

● Health Minister MacEachen—"Perhaps the most important preventive measure is the fluoridation of water supplies. I think it is correct to say that this is the most effective, safest and least costly method of reducing the need for dental care."

● British Ministry of Health—"Rarely has any health measure been the subject of so much study and research."

"Every allegation of harm has been painstakingly assessed. The safety of the measure has now been placed beyond doubt."

The Victoria and District Dental Society offers the names of 25 major Canadian and American cities where fluoridated water is supplied to 75,000,000 people.

The executive of the Willows Parent-Teacher Association said it wants "to make known to all parents and other voters in Oak Bay that we place more faith in the following responsible groups which endorse fluoridation than in the miscellaneous layman's group which wishes to defeat it."

Organizations Quoted

The PTA lists eight national and international organizations of medical, dental and public health experts.

Mr. Thullier, in a recent letter to the Colonist, quoted Dr. R. H. Harris of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as saying: "There is plenty of evidence that fluoride at one part per million interferes with the enzyme systems. It is clear fluoridation is a calculated risk."

Wharfage Fees Provoke Storm

An angry commercial fisherman, protesting Sidney village commission's stand against fishermen, talked from a stormy all-candidates election meeting in Sidney Hotel Monday night because he couldn't express his views.

"As a fisherman, I walk out," shouted Richard Larson, of 10432 Eden Place. "I've had my fill of it (the interruptions)."

"The meeting was little other than a meeting of the chamber of commerce president (William Larnick) and chairman (A.W.) Freeman's self-admiration society," Mr. Larson later told the Colonist.

Mr. Larson said he had attended the meeting to ask candidates what they intended to do about the fishermen's wharf issue.

CHAIRMAN ANSWERED Instead, he said, Chairman Freeman, who wasn't a candidate, did the answering.

The wharf, leased to the village from the department of transport last year, was returned to the department after the village was involved in a hassle with fishermen over wharfage charges.

NO PREVIOUS FEES Fishermen had never paid wharfage charges prior to the village lease and when the commission "surprised" fishermen with a wharfage bill, Mr. Freeman, then campaigning for a vacancy on council, promised to equip the wharf with lighting, water and other services, Mr. Larson said.

A candidate for re-election, incumbent commissioner W. W. Gardner concurred. He said Mr. Freeman had won the commercial fishermen's vote on the promise that the services would be installed.

PAYMENTS WITHHELD In protest against paying wharfage for no services, fishermen held back their payment and were threatened last week with police action.

"It was wrong to suggest that it is a police affair," said Mr. Gardner. "But it is a case for the courts since some (fishermen) have paid and others haven't."

PAYING MORE Mr. Larson complained that Sidney fishermen were paying more for no service than Vancouver fishermen for wharfage with complete utilities.

"I'm not interested in harbor boards of Vancouver," said Mr. Freeman. "Council has worked hard for the fishermen here."

"We got absolutely nothing (from the village commission)," another fisherman said.

Candidates at the stormy session were incumbent commissioners Gardner and L. R. Christian, and newcomers L. E. Y. James and Mrs. Norma Sealey.

Action Asked On Highway

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce Transportation and Harbor committee has thrown its weight behind a move to speed up improvement of the Patricia Bay Highway.

The group also plans to request an early meeting with Highways Minister Gagliardi to discuss building of an improved, more direct route to the new airport terminal at Patricia Bay Airport.

$18,000 Carr Painting Not Top Class Example

The curator of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery said Tuesday the Emily Carr painting which sold in Vancouver for a peak price was not a top class example of her work.

Commenting on the $18,000 sale Colin Graham said "This was a good painting, but not really a top example of Emily Carr's work."

"It makes me wonder what a really first-class example of her work would bring. I speculate possibly as high as $30,000." A small oil by Emily Carr was sold here several years ago for $1,700 and another, more recently, for $4,700.

Three pictures by the Victoria artist were sold at auction in London three months ago with a top price of $8,000 for one of them.

Land Dealing Report Out After Election

The report of a provincial inquiry into land dealings by Saanich municipal assessment department staff will be made public Monday.

J. D. Baird, deputy inspector of municipalities, who made the inquiry, indicated Tuesday the report was being delayed so its contents couldn't be used in the current election campaign.

Mr. Baird about two weeks ago heard five hours of sworn testimony from present and former employees of the Saanich assessment staff.

Saanich council asked for the inquiry after it was alleged some of the employees organized an investment club for the purchase and resale of land.

As an informal group and later as Royal Oak Estates Ltd., they dealt in five properties, according to evidence given at the probe.

A separate fire department have a clear choice, with no in-between.

"Do we accept the combined force which is working well or venture into the other area of a separate fire department — which is unnecessary — and increase everyone's taxes in Esquimalt by 25 per cent?" he asked.

Of the six candidates for three seats on council, five addressed the meeting sponsored by the Esquimalt Association of Women Electors.

Consideration should be given to the future use of the railroad property, according to James W. Bell.

He recommended a complete planning survey of the municipality, suggesting that clean light industry should be encouraged into the area, to share the tax burden as well as provide employment.

Mr. Bell pointed out that there are more than 1,000 senior citizens in the area, who need both a recreation centre, and also low rental housing, which should be owned and operated by council.

Ernest R. Brown pointed to our older residents for an increased mill rate," he said.

Incumbent Coun. Bryant has been on council for 16 years, and is running for re-election.

He referred particularly to the work on inter-municipal, and regional boards, explaining their importance in the future development of Esquimalt.

Edward N. DeCosta is another incumbent running for re-election.

He said that after eight years on council he felt he had served his apprenticeship, and understood the workings and interests of councils.

The other candidate is L. Fred Tooby, of 935 Old Esquimalt Road, who failed to appear.

"I was quite brazen about asking for help with such things as reading from my fellow students, although I did try to ask those who were taking the same course as I for help, so that their reading time wouldn't be lost to them. All the same, there were times when I even had art students reading animal husbandry."

Whatever her aim, she shouldn't have too much difficulty, according to another blind Victorian, Peter Clarkson, who graduated in animal husbandry from UBC.

Sooke

50-Cent Boost Asked

Sooke School District's non-teaching staff is asking an across-the-board pay increase of 50 cents an hour, school board chairman John Bartanus announced Tuesday.

Contract talks will continue Monday, said Mr. Bartanus.

Local 459 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees represents about 50 maintenance, custodial and secretarial staff.

For the manual workers, pay now ranges from $365 to $375 monthly for a custodian to $475 for a carpenter, Mr. Bartanus said.

The union is also seeking service pay of 10 cents per calendar day for each of the first five years of service. Service pay would increase 10 cents a day for every additional five years to a maximum of 40 cents a day after 15 years.

The union also asks a reduction of the work week from 40 hours to 37½ for maintenance and custodial staff and 35 hours for office staff.

Arbitration Talks Continue

Arbitration talks which will end a Greater Victoria teachers' pay dispute began Tuesday and will continue today.

The arbitration procedure affects 1,093 teachers in Greater Victoria school district. They have asked a salary increase averaging 11.76 per cent, and the board has offered an average 5.34 per cent.

Teachers' argument was heard Tuesday, said board chairman Gerald Sullivan, a Victoria lawyer. The school board's nominee is lawyer Kenneth Murphy, and the teachers' spokesman is Dr. R. A. Shearer, a professor of economics at the University of British Columbia.

Sooke teachers settled last month for an average 7.3 per cent salary increase.

Saanich school district's contract goes to arbitration Dec. 20.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am 28 and the mother of two children. I am now pregnant with my third child. I sailed through my first two pregnancies with no trouble. This time, however, I am experiencing morning nausea and I can't eat anything until noon.

Is it possible for my husband to be sick on account of this also? He actually throws up when I do and neither one of us can figure it out.

I told him I'd ask my doctor and he gave me orders to keep quiet about it. He suggested I write to you and sign a phony name which I am doing. Please reply in the paper? Thank you — MRS. SMITH.

Dear Mrs. Smith: Your husband should get a physical check-up and learn if there is something organically wrong with him.

Don't be surprised if he gets a clean bill of health. It is not uncommon for the husband to take on a wife's symptoms.

in looking, tying, buttoning, snapping and buckling should begin at age three. Much obliged — POOPED.

Dear Pooped: It's not only better for the teacher when the small fry can manage for themselves, it's better for the kids. Youngsters who are taught self-reliance are fortunate. Mental health begins in infancy. Independence and a sense of achievement are important cornerstones. A few minutes a day will do it, mother.

Bazaar Dec. 10

Dear Ann Landers: I teach in an elementary school in Baltimore. It rained today and I came home completely exhausted from snapping 25 raincoats and struggling with almost as many pairs of boots. In the dead of winter it's worse. There are leggings, sweaters, goshes, storm coats and hats. Please, Ann Landers, tell mothers through your column that by the time their children are old enough to go to school they should be able to dress themselves and put on their own boots. ## Canned Fashion

TORONTO (CP) — Women's dresses now are being sold in cans.

The new canned fashions, on sale in a downtown department store Thursday, pop out of a can about the size of a two-quart tin of peaches.

The contents of the can weigh 4½ ounces and the fashions cannot be wrinkled.

The department store features two dress styles: one with a hip-flung skirt, the other a shift with a flip skirt. Each dress has a flapskin hat that comes out of the same can.

Called Le Canned Dress, the dresses are in printed nylon and come in various colors.

"We got the name for the outfit from the French can-can," said Lou Himes of Caden Sportswear, Montreal, who is making the dress in Canada.

Wrap Parcels Well For Christmas Mail

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO — Unless your Aunt Harriet lives where mail is delivered by parachute, her Christmas present isn't going to be dropped from a great height deliberately.

At the same time, postal workers cannot give it personal attention. It goes on a conveyor with hundreds of other parcels, then into a bag which is thrown on to a truck or train and off again.

"They do get a fair bit of handling," W. D. Baker says mildly. "Chipboard, a box like a shoe box won't stand it. A three-pound book could go right through it."

Mr. Baker is in the public relations department of the post office. He combines a plea for early mailing at Christmas with the hope that packages will be wrapped so they stand a chance of getting there in one piece.

If you haven't mailed your presents to Britain yet, it's too late to get them there by Christmas in the normal way. The deadline was Nov. 24. Cards in Canada should be mailed by Dec. 13 for out-of-town delivery, Dec. 17 locally.

For parcels going out of town, allow for the usual mailing time and add a few days.

The big cities usually take special measures to facilitate handling of Christmas mail. In Toronto, for example, the post office rents most of the big coliseum building at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

"In many areas of the country there is just truck service now that trains no longer run there," Mr. Baker says. "When the available truck or trucks are loaded, mail left over just has to wait."

You can minimize the chance of delay on a package going out of Canada by having customs forms filled out correctly, getting parcels weighed at the post office for postage and following size and weight regulations.

Parcels for Britain may weigh no more than 22 pounds. For Canada and the United States the limit is 25 pounds. Mr. Baker says people often must be asked to rewrap packages to lighten them.

"This is not an exclusively Canadian regulation. It's an international agreement on parcel post."

In Canada, parcels may be no more than three feet in width, length or height. For Britain the limit is 3½ feet. In either case the girth may be no more than six feet.

"We haven't stated a minimum size, though we don't like packages too small. They get lost and easily damaged because there is no packing in them."

"We suggest that all parcels be tied with twine. If the parcel gets damaged, the string will hold it together. Gummed tape sometimes dries out and lifts off, especially if the package is shipped in a cold car."

"The correct address is one thing we're always concerned about. We must have the correct postal address, and in metropolitan areas the apartment suite number is getting to be almost a must."

"We also suggest you show a return address inside the package in case the outside label comes off."

Corrugated cardboard, strong brown paper and sufficient packing are also recommended. Mr. Baker says the post office would be pleased if you never mailed liquids. But if you must, it prefers they be packed with enough absorbent material to absorb all the liquid should its container break.

Violet Locke Honored At Round of Showers

Ribbon corsages were presented to bride-elect Miss Violet Locke, her mother Mrs. William Locke, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. H. S. Cox, when the bride-elect was entertained at a shower given by her maid of honor, Miss Maureen Carson, at the home of Mrs. C. H. Mills, 1040 Avenue.

A gaily decorated box contained the gifts presented by the following guests: Mrs. W. Locke, Mrs. H. Cox, Mrs. F. Rudd, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. D. Lemont, Mrs. R. Johansen, the Misses Carol Quissey, Sharon Quick, Evelyn Strong and Lillian Locke.

Miss Locke was honored at a shower held in the Athlone Drive home of Miss W. Bishop who will be her bridesmaid. A pink corsage was presented to the bride-elect. White corsages were presented to her mother and groom-elect's mother. Gifts were in a laundry basket decorated in white and yellow. Invited guests were: Mrs. M. Bishop, Mrs. G. Miller, Mrs. V. Fowler, Mrs. M. Fowler, Mrs. J. M. McLeod, the Misses M. Carson, A. F. Scovil, and L. Temple. Mrs. G. McLeod, Mrs. G. Bond, Mrs. D. Adams and Miss L. Locke.

Mrs. M. Ackerman and Mrs. E. Constance were co-hostesses at a linen shower in the Tatterfall Drive home of the latter for Miss Locke. Christmas corsages were presented to Miss Locke and mothers of the principals. A decorated wishing well concealed the gifts. There were 14 guests.

A lovely pink ribbon corsage was given to Miss Locke when the Ladies of Smoke Community honored her at a shower held in the Canadian Legion Hall which was decorated in the Christmas theme. A gaily decorated box held the many gifts presented to the bride-elect by Miss Maureen Blight, her cousin. Approximately 60 guests attended.

Hospital service is the most urgent need facing the people of Victoria. If elected, these are my recommendations:

1. To conduct a new area survey.
2. Based on this survey, a new general hospital of at least 200 beds with service provision for 400 beds.
3. That, to honor a man who placed duty to the community above his personal welfare, the new hospital be named TOONE GENERAL HOSPITAL.

Sidney

Status Not Costly

There will be no increased taxation when Sidney becomes a town with a mayor and four aldermen on Jan. 1, ratemakers were assured Monday.

But there will be added responsibilities, said village commission chairman A. W. Freeman.

"Sidney is growing up," Mr. Freeman told an all-candidates' election meeting. "We hope you'll grow up with Sidney."

TOWN MOON

The additional responsibilities, primarily welfare costs, will not affect next year's tax structure, Mr. Freeman said.

Letters patent making Sidney a town as of Jan. 1, 1967, will be handed over by the provincial government later this month.

MORE MONEY

The chairman of the commission and commissioners will automatically become mayor and aldermen on the first of the year.

Mr. Freeman said Sidney would receive a larger per-capita grant because of its increased population (now in excess of 3,000). Commercial development will also add revenue to offset additional costs.

Proposal 'Not Practical'

A suggestion that all bylaws be given three separate readings at separate meetings was considered to have merits but not to be practical, by Oak Bay council Monday night.

Reeve Allan Cox said this was the practice in senior legislatures because they met every day. He said if council started following this practice it would mean calling special meetings during the week. If it followed regular council meeting nights it would take two months to pass a bylaw.

Present practice is to give the bylaw three readings at a single council meeting then finally to adopt it at the next council meeting.

MORE CONSIDERATION

"This way every councillor has two weeks to consider a bylaw," said Reeve Cox.

Coun. Dr. Harold Carter said the present council practice was to stop further readings of any bylaw that was not approved unanimously by all councillors.

'Some More Equal'

MONTREAL (CP) — Stanley Knowles, MP for Winnipeg North Centre, said during the week-end Canadians should not kid themselves that there is no racial discrimination in this country.

"We are all equal but some are more equal than others," said the member of the New Democratic Party.

"We still have serious conflicts between the two founding races and even with the race that was here long before any of us—the Indians."

Weather-Dried Skin is "Yelling" for Water

If your skin is dry, wrinkled and rough, chances are it's starving for water. You can pump water in from the outside by the faucet, and all that happens is it runs off. But at last an amazing discovery called CEP 888 actually carries water into and under the skin. Skin bursts into the bloom of youth with CEP 888. CEP 888 is a lotion-like substance called 2nd Debut. At drug or department stores. Special introductory offer to my readers only. You will be mailed overland the $1.25 demonstration size of the regular $2.75 value 2nd Debut with CEP 888 if you send only $1.00 to me, Lila Hamilton, Beauty Soap Writer, Dept. V-12, 843 Queen Street East, Toronto 8, Ontario.

Tuesday in Central Magistrate's Court, Gustav Egnell, 63, of 521 Johnson, pleaded guilty to two counts of shoplifting and was sentenced to eight months in jail on each count. Sentence is to be concurrent.

COOKIES TAKEN

Court was told Egnell had been apprehended late Monday afternoon by a downtown department store's security officer after he had been seen taking a work shirt, a pair of boy's pants and a set which included a pair of boys' pants and shirt. He also took a box of cookies from the grocery department. Total value was $14.

TWO SHIRTS

A search of the man's person at police headquarters revealed that Egnell was wearing two shirts under his outer shirt. He admitted he had stolen them from another city department store.

The Crown said Egnell had a record of vagrancy and shoplifting four pages long dating back to 1949.

"You are a persistent and unrepentant thief," said Magistrate William Ostler as he passed sentence.

Glen Lamberton, 18, of Lady-smith, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor and was fined $50.

Cameron Smedstad, 19, of 610 Trunk Road, pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was fined $40.

Court was told the youth had been seen drinking a bottle of beer while a passenger in a car stopped by police at 10:55 p.m. Nov. 12. There were 47 bottles of beer in the car.

"Where did you get a liquid arsenal like that?" the magistrate asked.

At Duncan, the youth replied.

Island Hardwoods Ltd., 197 Songhees, and William Minton, operator of Minton's Bakery, were each fined $200 after pleading guilty to charges of contravening the Income Tax Act.

David Mollen, 344 Cook, pleaded guilty to a charge of consuming liquor in a public place and was fined $50.

Fined in Traffic Court

Robert Becker, of Kelsey Bay, careless driving, $40; minor driver's licence, $25; Ronald Hope, 471 Grafton, careless driving, $40, failing to remain at the scene of an accident, $100; Dennis Mireau, 4280 Cedar Hill Road, careless driving, $40.

Scott X FOR ALDERMAN

Scott has a long and honorable record as a fighter against injustices in this city. His foresight and tenacity largely made possible the building of the University of Victoria on the Gordon Head site. Lawyers' clients owe the existing protection of their property to his fight 20 years ago in this city.

Police Commission

In the interest of the public, Scott claims two of the three members of the Police Commission should be elected representatives. He can give reasons.

Ombudsman

If elected, Scott will function as an unofficial ombudsman. He would invite written complaints from those who feel they have received unjust treatment from the authorities. If he felt the complaint to be justified, he would refer it in, along with his own comments, to the proper authorities.

Victoria's Juvenile Delinquents

Scott claims adults in Victoria, more than youths, are mainly responsible for our youth's healthy and unhealthily revolt against age, law and order. If elected he will invite university students to assist in solving the so-called delinquent problem.

Free Port

If elected, Scott would press vigorously for Victoria's right to become, once again, a "Free Port," with all the advantages that go with this status. Scott points out that this would revitalize Downtown Victoria, would make Victoria the most prosperous shipbuilding centre in Canada, and would establish it as a terminal port for world heavy liners. It would become a mecca for bargain-hunting tourists as Hong Kong is now.

Toad of Toad Hall

Saturday Matinee Opens Fantasy By Theatre Guild

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Victoria Theatre Guild has gone for broke and plunged $3,500 into its Christmas production of Toad of Toad Hall.

The musical fantasy based on Kenneth Grahame's classic opens with a Saturday matinee and should prove a delight.

Director Tony Burton is manipulating a cast of close to 50 and a backstage crew of 100 in a frantic effort to tie down last-minute loose ends.

The H. Fraser-Simpson score will be played by a small orchestra under the direction of Jack Lemaghan.

FOR ADULTS, TOO

Mr. Burton explained this is not a play just for children but a timeless entertainment that has drawn houses of both adults and youngsters.

The forthcoming production will be the third showing of Toad that Mr. Burton has directed.

It's also a coincidence that Cliff Clarke will be playing Toad for the third time. The same is true for John Martin who plays Badger.

Ceredwyn Stevens started her stage career in Toad eight years ago as a page boy. The second time around she was a weasel and for this show she has been promoted to Chief Weasel.

The matinee production runs for close to three hours and involves nine set changes.

Toad of Toad Hall gets added color from the Bebe Eversfield dancers under the direction of Sylvia Hosie who has created original dance numbers for this show.

LUCKY WINNERS

Bastion Theatre has contributed a number of child actors for roles as ferrets, stoats, field mice, rabbits and squirrels.

At each presentation one lucky child will be the winner of a special doll modelled on the various Toad of Toad Hall characters. They have been made by Theatre Guild members.

After two shows this Saturday the play will run all the following week with a matinee Dec. 17.

Couple Faces Theft Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man and his wife charged jointly with theft of $188,000 from a Vancouver department store were granted an adjournment Monday by Magistrate Maurice Mulligan to Dec. 13.

Charged with the theft from the Hudson's Bay Company are Donald Dunster, 26, operator of a Vancouver vending machine business, and his wife, Lucy, 31, a former Bay cashier.

They were charged originally with theft of $196,100.

Prelude at Oak Bay

Christmas with Bell, Drum

By BERT BINNY

The three past orchestral and choral concert, Prelude to Christmas, which was staged at Oak Bay Junior High School Tuesday had a lot to recommend it.

The program opened with five items by the Greater Victoria Elementary-Schools Orchestra, about 50 students. The orchestra was conducted by Bernard Rain and accompanied by Bruce Turkington.

AMBITIOUS ATTEMPT

Neither youth nor the naturally attendant inexperience stopped them from attacking such items as Bizet's Agnus Dei.

But they were perhaps at their very best with a bright, little item called Sleigh Bells.

LOT CROWDED

In this they had a soloist, Christopher Kringle himself, who claimed that he had borrowed bells from Dancer, Priggen or whoever and had dropped in to play them.

If this was believable, his other claim, namely, that he had parked his sleigh out back, was not; there wasn't space for a Honda.

The Oak Bay Junior Secondary School Choir occupied the second part of the program with nine selections. A card of unknown authorship, Rocking, was especially pleasing and so was African Noel.

This latter featured use of an authentic African drum, played by Lindsey Bruce.

A highly acceptable feature of both these items and of the well known carol Noel was the mite section of the choir.

VIGOR SHOWN

The choir didn't fare so well when it was joined by the school's string class. It was just about drowned out although its efforts were unceasing and enthusiastic.

Following the intermission the Junior Secondary Schools Orchestra took the stage, conducted by Thomas Tucker. It displayed a vigorous attack and fine unity.

TWO VIOLINS

Included in their program was a Vivaldi concerto for two violins with soloists Ronald Comber and John Rigby.

The former produces a delightful cantabile tone and John is a capable as well as a versatile performer. Only last Friday he was featured as a soloist with the school orchestra and the choir were, respectively, Julie Thomson and Nancy Meredith.

The orchestra concluded with Saint-Saens' Danse Macabre. Players made a good job of this, as it makes considerable demands on all sections, strings, brass, woodwinds and percussion.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT

The other day I got into a typical gardener's argument with a friend visiting from Edmonton. I must admit I was a bit amused and complacent as I compared our gardening techniques with those of the prairies. I was taken down a peg, though, when the talk got around to roses.

"Did you know," my friend asked, "that the finest rose show west of Toronto is held in the city of Edmonton? And have you any idea what we have to do to bring our roses safely through a prairie winter?"

"He went on to explain about setting kegs or wooden bottomless boxes over the rose bushes and filling them with expanded mica insulating material, and injecting water into the soil at freeze-up time to encase the roots in a solid block of ice—I never realized before that ice has good insulating qualities. Climbers are taken down, bundled up, and buried."

Every effort is made to maintain a good cover of snow over the roses, which isn't easy in the land of chinooks. Before he got through with his discourse, I was feeling positively guilty over the ease with which we produce our lavish floral displays.

It is true, though, that we have a few problems in wintering our roses which are peculiarly our own. Every spring I get letters complaining that rose bushes have failed to answer roll call in the spring.

One reason is a lack of complete dormancy in our roses, for a bush which is deeply anaesthetized by winter cold can take a lot more punishment than one which is "under" only briefly and shallowly through the winter months.

A lot of our rose damage is caused by strong winds. The bushes sway back and forth, loosening the roots in the unfrozen ground and causing a tapered hole to form in the soil around the main stem. This hole, with its walls compressed by the pressure of the swaying stem, fills up with water, tending to rot the most vulnerable part of the plant—the collar.

It is at this point, the junction of the grafted top with the briar roots, where some protection is needed. First thing to do is shorten all growths which are long enough to cause the bush to sway in the wind, and if the bush is already loosened, treat it in again firmly.

It seems a bit silly to have to stake roses, but in a really windy, exposed situation, it may be necessary to poke a few light bamboo canes through the network of branches to minimize swaying. It shouldn't be necessary to do anything.

With these jobs done, a little mounding up around the base of the bush is always a good idea. Nothing of a moisture-holding nature should be used for this purpose, and if you don't have any coarse-grained sand handy, use crushed cinders or even small gravel.

Some gardeners simply pull a little soil up around the main stem with the hoe, like earthing up potatoes, but I don't think it is good business to do the mounding with soil robbed from over the shallow roots. Too light a covering isn't good for them, and the depressions left in the rose bed will collect water just where we don't want it. If you MUST use soil for mounding rather than sand or cinders, import it from some other part of the garden.

Airs His Thoughts

In the calculus of human existence, it seems to me that life is 30 per cent what is handed to you at birth, 30 per cent what you make of yourself . . . the final, and often determining, 10 per cent, is sheer luck.

Has it occurred to anyone that the real reason for the Biblical myth of Adam—that is, one created man instead of a multiplicity of mean created all to gether—is to stress the common parenthood of everyone on earth, so that no one could point to "superior" lineage if he goes back far enough?

The high rate of what are euphemistically called "nervous breakdowns" in social and diplomatic circles is best attributed to the free-lance pace so much as to Anne Lister's diagnosis many years ago: "The most exhausting thing in life is being insecure."

Any act can be justified by its proponents; no doubt murderers, if called upon to rationalize their deeds, would call them "regrettable but not evil."

One sneaky concomitant of our affluent society is the large number of divorcees who "can't afford" to remarry lest they lose their alimony payments.

The best advice on cigarette smoking was given by Gandhi, who wasn't talking about cigarette smoking at all: "As long as you derive inner help and comfort from anything, you should keep it. If you were to give it up in a mood of self-sacrifice or out of a sense of want it back, and that unsatisfied want would make trouble for you. Only give up a thing when you want some other condition so much that the thing no longer has attraction for you, or when it seems to interfere with that which is more greatly desired."

Everyone is in favor of law which he cannot imagine himself breaking; the laws we object to are those which penalize misdeeds we feel ourselves capable of.

There is no record in history of a nation building up a huge store of arms and not using them; if the arms are available, they will be used, one way or another, under one pretext or another.

It is a shallow definition to say, as Harry Truman did, that "politics is the art of government"—politics is the art of circumventing government on behalf of partisan goals that are cunningly disguised as public needs.

I'd like to "initiate" the ex-termination of the man who "finalizes" a decision.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Burtons To Be Honored

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton will be presented to Queen Mother Elizabeth after the showing of their Taming of the Shrew scheduled for the next royal film performance on Feb. 27, which just happens to be Elizabeth Taylor's birthday—her 35th, I believe.

Carl Foreman is hoping to corral the original stars of his Guns of Navarone for the sequel he is planning—Gregory Peck, Anthony Quinn and David Niven with Anthony Quayle. It was a beautiful picture with a beautiful cast.

It costs a lot of money sometimes to go to work. If you are Debbie Reynolds, for instance. She is spending about $50,000 for the clothes she will wear for her six weeks at the Las Vegas Riviera, beginning with the Christmas holidays. Debbie can afford it. Apart from receiving almost this much money per week for the job, she is married to multi-millionaire Harry Karl.

Sheila McRae doesn't expect her appearances on Jackie Gleason's The Honeymooners to be so popular. At the beginning, she commuted from her apartment in New York to Miami where the Great One lives and works. But now she is renting herself a house in Miami Beach and has given up the exhausting weekly trip.

Money isn't always the magnet for the talented people of stage and screen. Andre Previn, who was the boy wonder of the Metro musical department when I first met him in Hollywood, has turned down $300,000 in film assignments for the next 11 months to earn a tenth of that, conducting symphony orchestras here and in Europe.

George Hamilton will complete his Jack of Diamonds film in less than two weeks in Munich, then it's back to the U.S. And what's in Hamilton's future? . . . Mickey Hargitay managed to get time off to fly to Hollywood from Rome to sit at the bedside of his son, Zoltan, now expected to recover from the lion mauling. Mickey is making a movie in Rome . . . Jayne Mansfield is being comforted by lawyer Sam

Brody who is getting her divorce from current husband Matt Cimber.

Shirley MacLaine was the most disappointed actress in Paris when she was unable to fly to New York for the Tom Dooley Foundation dinner. Shirley is the chairman and hoped to attend the function, honoring Danny Kaye. Unfortunately, she had to be on the set by noon of the following day and even jets can't travel that fast.

Oh dear, they will have to do better than the Initial Fame Is the Name of the Game, the first movie made expressly for television. The two-hour film starring Tony Franciosa and Jill St. John was terribly confusing and like an old B picture. There was nothing the stars could do about the plot and dialogue.

For the first time, we will actually see the arch-villain Ernst Stavro Blofeld—in the latest and perhaps the last of the James Bond pictures, You Only Live Twice. Character actor Donald Pleasance plays Blofeld whose back or hand we have only seen until now.

Simone Signoret has taken her Macbeth experience on stage like the good trouper she is. Now in Hollywood to star for Universal in Games, Simone insists that the collision with Shakespeare in London taught her a great deal—to survive criticism mostly. Nonetheless, she has vowed, "no more Shakespeare."

The French have made their own Battle of Britain, and I'm wondering where this leaves producer Harry Saltzman who was planning to spend $11,000,000 on a British version of The Battle of Britain. The French have used a great deal of hitherto unseen newsreels taken from German archives.

Lita Grey Chaplin at the Brown Derby, was proudly showing the scars of a recent face-lift. She does this everywhere I hear—someone saw the happening at the Drake Hotel in New York. Lita can afford it, having made a great deal of money on her outrageous autobiography.

Take One to Lunch, Says ERMA BOMBECK

Be Kind to Heroes

Being an incurable romantic, I am delighted to report there is a movement afoot to "Help Preserve Our Heroes."

In 1949, there were 3,637 accredited heroes. Today, due to literary snipers and word of mouth defamation, this figure has dwindled to 15.

All of us are used to the harmless innuendoes, but I'm talking about the shocking exposure of our heroes, which if allowed to continue will leave us with history books filled only with maps.

Take Winston Churchill, for example. For years, he and his wife had been touted as the most perfect couple of our times. Now we read where he had a "thing" with Ethel Barrymore.

And Somerset Maugham. For the price of a newspaper copy of a national magazine you may read aspects of his personal life your English teacher never told you about.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt has also been cut down by old friends who felt the world deserved the truth, 20 some years after his death.

Very frankly, the condition is a critical one. Heroes are dying off faster than we can manufacture them. To illustrate the point, I talked briefly this week with a group of youngsters about heroes.

"Who are the real heroes of today?" I asked. "Babe Ruth, perhaps."

"Our teacher said he smoked too much, drank too much and had a cholesterol problem."

"I see. What about Christopher Columbus?"

"Columbus was all right as a person," said a youngster. "He was just an incompetent seaman with a labor problem he couldn't handle. When a newspaperman lunch can sail the Atlantic in a vessel no bigger than a rowboat, what's such a big deal about Columbus?"

"Well, who then?" I pursued. "Tarzan, maybe?"

"Surely you read about the scandal a few years back when it was revealed his marriage with Jane was solemnized only in the presence of a few spider monkeys and a crocodile. Our minister said they were living in the jungle in sin!"

The entire interview was a little sad. Heroes don't have feet of clay. They're human beings who make mistakes, stumble and fall, fight with their wives, feel pain and heaven help them, keep diaries that are later published. They're not heroes because of these things, but in spite of them. The greatness exceeds the man.

Heroes are still being born. This week is "Help Preserve Our Heroes" week. Take one to lunch.

High Price Paid For Carr Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Emily Carr painting sold for $18,000 at auction Tuesday. Purchaser was Toronto art dealer G. Blair Lang, who declined to say whether he was acting for himself or on behalf of a client.

The price was $10,000 more than previous auction prices for works by the Victoria painter, who died in 1945.

The painting, Trees in the Sky, was presented to the late W. G. Murrin in 1946 when he retired as president of the B.C. Electric Company. He hung it in his basement.

'Door Not Closed'

Dignified Solution Possible—Smith

SALISBURY (UPI)—Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith said Tuesday his breakaway colony still was willing to negotiate the independence issue with Britain. He said it could be resolved "without loss of dignity or face to either side."

He blamed British insistence on a "return to legality"—abandonment of the illegal independence seized Nov. 11 last year—for the failure of the negotiations.

The British government's general attitude in discussions was not to negotiate, he said, but to prescribe conditions with which Rhodesia was expected to comply.

"As I have said so many times in the past, I will never shut the door to constructive discussions with anyone at any time."

Smith told the Rhodesian nation in a television appearance the main reason his government rejected the final British settlement terms thrust out aboard the British cruiser HMS Tiger off Gibraltar was the British government's insistence that his government surrender its powers.

Rhodesia: How Severe?

FIGHT STARTS OVER SQUEEZE

From CP, UPI

Effective sanctions against rebellious Rhodesia will be sought at a meeting of the United Nations Security Council called Monday for within 48 hours, but the demands will differ with the source.

In London Prime Minister Wilson told a British television audience the economic sanctions Britain will seek would be "selective" and should not "hit the whole of southern Africa abase."

Some African nations at the UN, however, will press for nothing less than a total economic boycott of Rhodesia.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown left Britain by jet Tuesday to present the British case to the council in New York.

PLANNING PARLEY

The UN ambassadors of 38 African countries will meet today after Brown's arrival, to concert their plans, the African spokesman said.

Britain is expected to ask UN member countries to ban all trade with Rhodesia in certain vital commodities. There is some doubt as to whether oil will be among them.

The Commonwealth sanctions committee in London, headed by Canadian High Commissioner Lionel Chevrier, was scheduled to meet again today.

THREE AFRICANS

There are three African countries, Mali, Uganda and Nigeria, on the 15-country Security Council at present.

"Selective" sanctions, UN observers here said, would apply to the major cash-earning Rhodesian exports such as tobacco, chrome, asbestos, meat and pig iron, but would shy away from vital Rhodesian imports, such as oil, which might embroil South Africa.

Reports from Washington said the United States was ready to back whatever Britain asks the council to do.

The decision to seek sanctions against Rhodesia earlier sent prices tumbling on the London Stock Exchange. Paper value

Vorster Feels Pact Possible

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South African Premier John Vorster held out the possibility Tuesday night of a last-minute agreement between Britain and Rhodesia on the Rhodesian independence crisis. (See also Page 15).

He said in a statement his all-white government does not believe such an agreement is impossible "if conditions were not insisted upon which make such a settlement impossible."

Observers believed the premier was referring to Britain's terms for a return to constitutional government in Rhodesia, rejected Monday night by the white-minority Rhodesian government of Ian Smith.

It was the first official South African government comment on the crisis since the rejection and Britain's decision to seek selective mandatory sanctions at the United Nations.

Vorster said he is extremely sorry that, whereas Anglo-Rhodesian agreement had been reached within the framework of Britain's basic principles, the matter is "now being referred to the United Nations only because agreement could not be reached on certain matters of procedure."

"It must be emphasized that no one's cause will be served by this, and it must be foreseen that it will probably create interminable bitterness and damage," Vorster said.

Boost Clarified

Some Pensioners Won't Pay Tax

Victoria income tax officials Tuesday cleared up one point regarding the federal government's old-age pension legislation.

The legislation would not make taxpayers of all pensioners.

If they get the old-age pension, they do not get the additional exemption. The additional $360 a year could then put the pensioner in an income-tax-paying bracket.

All persons over 70 are entitled to the full $1,600 exemption.

Arbitration?

Docks Action Today

Arbitration may be employed to force an end to the critical British Columbia waterfront tieup, federal Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson said Tuesday in Vancouver before returning to Ottawa.

Mr. Nicholson said he would ask the Commons today to approve a proposal aimed at ending the 19-day-old strike, that is crippling shipping and is spreading layoffs in the forest industry.

"It is sufficient to say arbitration might be involved if necessary," he said, and declined to elaborate.

NO PROGRESS

The minister said he made no progress in a meeting with longshore employers earlier Tuesday, seeking acceptance of the formula he had proposed Sunday.

"As the prime minister and I have stated, this dispute can no longer hold up distribution of products and result in the layoff of thousands of persons in other industries," Mr. Nicholson said.

Mr. Nicholson's proposal would permit the 190 striking foremen to have grievance procedure and the right to form an association without belonging to the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

PRIMITIVE FORM

The longshore foremen accepted the proposal, but the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association turned it down, calling it a "device" and a "primitive form of collective agreement."

Contempt Warning Issued By Bugging-Case Judge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A warning about possible contempt action was issued Tuesday by retired judge R. A. Sargent, the one-man royal commission looking into the planting of electronic listening devices at a union convention.

The commissioner said he has the power of a Supreme Court judge to punish for contempt and will use the power if necessary.

But he took no action against persons and publications a lawyer said were in contempt. Mr. Sargent, a retired county court judge, said it is possible they did not realize he had the contempt power.

LAWYER COMPLAINS

The inquiry, ordered by Premier Bennett, opened Monday into charges that bugging devices were installed in Vancouver hotel rooms used by a convention of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

The union alleged that Pat O'Neil, organizer for the rival international brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, organized the eavesdropping.

Richard Anderson, lawyer for Mr. O'Neil, said there had already been contempt of the commission which prejudiced persons involved.

He said the contempt was committed in articles in the Pacific Tribune, Progressive Worker, the Vancouver Sun and in a letter to unions from Syd Thompson, president of Local 1217 of the International Woodworkers of America.

Rhodesia Offer U.K. Union

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain offered Rhodesia earlier this year an act of union between the two countries as a possible way out of the Rhodesian independence crisis, Prime Minister Wilson said Tuesday night.

In a nationwide television broadcast, the British leader said that under such a system, until Negro-majority rule was achieved in Rhodesia, Rhodesia and Britain would become one country, with Rhodesians, white and Negro, elected to the British Parliament.

These Rhodesian members of Parliament would have played a full part in all British affairs while Rhodesia still enjoyed full domestic self-government.

"I believe this was an offer of unparalleled generosity in the history of Britain and the Commonwealth," Wilson said.

But Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith had rejected this offer "as he and his colleagues have now rejected the honorable settlement we worked out last week."

Not a Curse, of Course, But . . .

Treenappers Get the Needle

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Careful, country-dwellers: the tree you buy may be your own. It's the annual treenapping time, and each year, the Christmas tree thieves grow bolder.

Take the brief two acres where I live, with less than an acre of it uncleared.

It's a private little second-growth wilderness where family and friends gather each year to collect pine cones and long-needed boughs for door decorations, and green and scarlet sprays of prickly Oregon grape to eke out purchased holly.

It's a special spot, where a pair of pheasants has a secret hideaway. In late fall, the juncoes flit from willow bough to compost heap and seedpod. Flickers cluster around the old pear tree, now gone wild over the years. Robins go and towhees come, all finding peace and protection in the overgrown acre.

The whole little limberlost isn't more than 400 feet long — just a pleasant green barrier between this home and the neighbors at the end of the dead-end road.

But even it isn't safe from treenappers.

almost a dozen fresh stumps, some several feet above ground, showing only the choice top section had been chopped from a well-grown tree.

A dozen trees gone already, and it's still a week or so until the annual surge of tree-seeking.

The RCMP have their own way of dealing with treenappers. They issue stern warnings annually to those who would cut trees on crown land, MacMillan Bloedel property, or other privately-owned land without a permit. Sometimes they catch a treenapper and charge him under the Forestry Act.

I would have my own private vengeance.

I don't wish harm to those who buy the trees innocently. I hope their lights shine as brightly and their gifts are as many as in other homes.

I don't even wish for compensation for the treenappers. Perhaps they desperately needed the $25 or so that the stolen trees provide.

It's not exactly a curse I'd lay on the tree thieves. But I do hope they never have the pleasure of a flock of feathered friends.

I hope they never know the delight of looking out on a snowy morning to find friend pheasant and his wife scratching and feeding in a sheltered clear spot beside the house.

I hope the flickers never add an orange gleam to their rosy winter landscape.

May the robins and goldfinches of summer never lighten their lives.

May swallows never swoop about their homes and nest in the eaves as a sign of happiness within.

May the only bird they ever come to know intimately be their Christmas turkey, which is raised without need of a tree for shelter.

For 500 Fund

Victorian Yields Spirits to Spirit

One generous Victorian is going to forego "one" of his Christmas bottles in order that the area's 500 neediest families might have a little extra cheer for their Christmas.

The $5 donated by A. N. Onymous (whose donation was listed yesterday) only represents one cent per family, but added together, often enough pennies can assume an overwhelming aspect.

"Another $5 for the Colonist 500 Fund," Mr. Onymous writes, "representing one less creak of Christmas cheer so that someone less fortunate can have a better form of cheer."

One might say it's kind of like getting the spirit by giving up the spirit.

Numerous donors with the Spirit of Christmas added heavily to the fund Tuesday, raising its total $644.95 to $4,931.75.

The almost $650 was the highest (no pun intended) one-day total to date.

Money collected is divided equally and then shared by the 500 neediest families in the area, as selected by welfare agencies.

Donations may be mailed to or left at The Colonist, 2511 Douglas, or Avis Rent-A-Car, 800 Douglas.

'Let Yugoslavs Stay in Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker rejected Tuesday an explanation in the Commons on the reasons why two Yugoslav ship-jumpers were ordered deported and another allowed to stay.

He said the statement by Immigration Minister Marchand didn't clarify the picture and the denial of political asylum for the two men was wrong.

SHIP JUMPED

Mr. Marchand was replying to a question raised by Mr. Diefenbaker in the Commons Monday. The Opposition leader asked why Slavko Smoljan and Anton Ivanchev were ordered to leave Canada after jumping ship at Montreal last December while Maril Bilic, who fled his ship earlier at Sorel, Que., was allowed to stay.

SOME LEARNING

Mr. Marchand said Bilic had four years elementary school education, four years of secondary school and a three-year course in auto mechanics. He told the immigration department his father had been killed by the Communists, Mr. Marchand added.

Smolja left school at 15 and Ivanchev at 16 and both took jobs as waiters. Both left Yugoslavia legally and had an opportunity to seek political asylum when their ship was in Britain if they had wanted to do so, Mr. Marchand said.

Italy Faces Worse Weather

ROME (AP) — Italians waded in the floods, shivered in the snow, slipped in the sleet and plodded through the mud Tuesday with only more bad weather in sight.

After a month of some of the most disastrous weather in Italy's history, Italians were told that another cold wave, more snow and new downpours of rain were moving in from the Atlantic.

There were longer-range predictions that there will be no real letup and that Italy is in for a grim winter.

Neither of these two men had produced any evidence that they would be persecuted if they were sent back home.

Bilic's training was such that he would have been eligible to come to Canada as an un-sponsored immigrant if he had been able to do so, the minister said. Thus there was a difference between his case and that of the other men.

Mr. Marchand said the government has checked on 22 Yugoslav ship deserters deported from Canada and there was no evidence that any of them had been persecuted after they arrived back home.

TORONTO STAY

He pointed out that Yugoslavs were deported from Canada while Mr. Diefenbaker was prime minister, too.

"Not under the circumstances that have occurred in these cases," Mr. Diefenbaker snapped back.

Ivanchev and Smoljan were ordered deported last Saturday. They have been living in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough and their lawyer has appealed to Prime Minister Pearson to rescind the deportation order.

A Kiss Before Dying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I kissed her and I shot her," said the 73-year-old retired army master sergeant Tuesday to the police, he summoned to his apartment building.

On the floor in the foyer in a red house coat was the body of the master sergeant's wife, Vera Lanehart, 56.

Police quoted Walter Lanehart as relating:

His wife had been so sick that she had pleaded with him for six days to take her life. She had a fear of hospitals. She got word last Thursday she must undergo an operation.

She woke him up at 2 a.m. Tuesday and insisted "let's do it now."

They didn't want to soil their own little two-room apartment. So she put on a red housecoat. He got dressed. They went down in the foyer in the building.

She sat on the marble steps. "Do it now," she begged.

"I kissed her and I shot her. I thought I might as well get it over with. I'm not well, either. I don't know how long I have to live. I didn't know what would happen to her if I died."

Lanehart was booked in city prison on a murder charge.

U.S. Fighter-Bomber Shot Down by MiG

SAIGON (CP) — One of three chief fighter bomber, downed by the MiG previously had been listed as having been lost Monday from unknown causes. The other two planes, both reconnaissance jets, had been reported shot down by ground fire.

It was the first announced loss of an American plane in aerial combat since July. The plane, a F-105 Thunder-

Russian Visit For Philip?

LONDON (AFP) — The possibility of a visit to the Soviet Union by Prince Philip is being discussed in parliamentary circles.

Well-informed sources said members of the Supreme Soviet, who recently visited here, had discreetly sounded out the response to an invitation to the prince would receive. The Soviet delegation was headed by the premier of the Russian Soviet Federal Socialist Republic, Genadi Voronov.

Political circles said Philip's acceptance of a Soviet invitation would depend on certain conditions, such as the freeing of Briton Gerald Brooke, now in a Soviet prison for anti-Soviet subversive activities.

Royal household officials said they had no information on the possible visit.

White Whale Caught

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Soviet whaler in the North Pacific has caught "Son of Moby Dick" — an absolutely white sperm whale with red eyes, Tass reported Tuesday.

The Soviet news agency said the whale—named after the great white whale in Herman Melville's novel—was the third albino ever caught.

Seven Ships Remain

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven ocean-going ships were left in the St. Lawrence Seaway and Great Lakes system at 1 p.m. PST Tuesday but a spokesman for the seaway authority says no trouble is anticipated in getting the ships out before the winter freeze-up.

The seaway will likely be kept open on a day-to-day basis until at least Friday, he said. Official closing date for the system this year and last was Dec. 3. This date was extended by 10 days in 1965.

In 20 years, this piece of property will be worth more money—or less. For a long-term risk-free investment, London Life has a suggestion.

Why buying a London Life policy is as good as buying a piece of property (perhaps better)

The value of London Life permanent insurance is not in the lap of the gods. It is guaranteed. You don't need a large down payment. You can borrow money on it. And all the while it protects your family more completely than any other investment.

YOU MAY LIFT YOUR EYEBROWS when we compare a London Life Jubilee policy with a piece of property. But consider these facts:

- (1) Investment in a piece of property usually involves some risk. A London Life Jubilee policy avoids the hazards of investment risk. The cash values of your policy are guaranteed in writing.

- (2) Start modestly. $13.09 a month isn't very big league in the investment world. But invested in a London Life Jubilee whole life policy it provides protection and builds substantial savings. If you start at age 25, by the time you reach age 65 you will have had $10,000 life insurance protection for your family for 40 years—and you will have built up savings of about $14,170, more than twice as much as you have paid in premiums. This is made up of $5,580 in guaranteed cash value, and $8,590 in accumulated dividends.

- (3) The dividends above are based on London Life's current dividend rate. Since the amount allotted to dividends is based on the Company's earnings, dividends cannot be guaranteed. However for many years, London Life's record of earnings has been outstanding, so the return on profit-sharing policies has been excellent.

- (4) When you're ready to retire, what other form of property offers you all these choices: at age 65 you can keep right on with your London Life insurance protection; you may stop paying premiums and take a paid-up policy for an adjusted amount; you may take the cash value, plus dividends that have built up—take it in a lump sum, as an income guaranteed for life or as an income for so many years. No other property is so versatile.

- (5) With your first premium you create an immediate estate. If you die, the value of your London Life policy is greatly increased—worth much more than you have paid in premiums. Many other properties must be sacrificed when the owner dies.

- (6) You can borrow from London Life on the cash value of your policy. Just call the local London Life office or your representative. No credit check. And all the while your policy continues to protect your family.

- (7) When you borrow from London Life, the interest rate is comparable with banks' regular lending rates and much lower than personal loan companies'.

- (8) A London Life Jubilee policy is a good investment in other ways. It is just as safe as high-grade bonds and much safer than most common stocks. It is particularly attractive because while it earns you money it protects your family.

- (9) Property values may rise or fall. But a London Life Jubilee policy grows with dividends and guaranteed values. Dividends are declared each year. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1966 exceed $30 million.

- (10) One reason London Life premiums are low is because Canadians, on the average, are long lived. Dividends to policyowners are high because, among other things, the London Life Insurance Company invests wisely and profitably. (In 1965, the Company earned 5.75% on its investments—after investment expenses.)

- (11) No two men have the same insurance needs. That's why your London Life representative has been schooled to tailor insurance to fit your needs. He is trained to give you efficient service for many years to come.

Duncan Silent On Expansion

DUNCAN — Civic officials declined to comment Tuesday night after meeting special consultants hired to study the feasibility of a boundary extension.

Council met officials of the Vancouver firm of McDonald and Currie to hear their report on a petition signed by 56 residents of land now in North Cowichan.

Mayor Jack Dobson said: "We want to be very, very careful. We will not release anything at this time so as not to confuse the situation."

Reports say the 56 people live in the Sherman Road-Mary Street-Phillips Street area and in the district between Canada Avenue and the Trans-Canada Highway.

Two of Three Charges Dismissed

DUNCAN — A 21-year-old Cowichan Station man who had pleaded not guilty to three charges last Aug. 31 has been convicted here on one of the counts.

Kenneth Wayne Braulin was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm while charges of wilful damage and leaving the scene of an accident were dismissed.

The case followed a two-car accident at Silver Bridge Park involving cars driven by Braulin and Roy Riddick. Court was told the two men got into an argument and then a tussle.

Odd Scarecrow Just Too Loud

MILLINGTON, N.J. (AP)—A funny-looking scarecrow that goes boom every 15 minutes of the day and night does a pretty good job scaring birds and deer — but people, they're another story.

Residents of this town have had about enough of a two-foot-long cannon used by farmer Philip Bardy to chase wild life from his fields.

"The dogs bark all night," one said. "The children cry and some people lie awake waiting for the damn thing to go boom — just like waiting for the other shoe to drop."

And go boom it does. The cannon is timed to boom automatically every 15 minutes.

In the daytime, the cannon is located near a cornfield to scare away blackbirds. At night, it's moved to a tomato and melon patch to frighten herds of deer that had fed there regularly until April 15 — the day it was installed.

Passaic Township has issued Bardy a warning to "cease the operation of your noise-making device" but he has ignored it so far.

The farmer says he was given permission to use the cannon from the New Jersey division of wild fish and game.

Bardy told of experiments in the past with straw-man scarecrows, noisemakers, that clap together and strings of flapping multi-colored flags. He said none worked.

Then he hit on the cannon. The cannon is operated with carbonated water and minerals which build up pressure and fire off the device periodically.

Rare-Blood Hunt Helping Helper

HALIFAX (CP) — A search for one of the world's rarest blood types has extended to the United States in an attempt to save the life of a hospital orderly who has given freely of his own blood in the past.

Doctors attending Laurie Hendabee, 41, who received two transfusions of the rare blood since suffering an internal hemorrhage Sunday, said Tuesday they had exhausted the supply of the blood in Canada and had asked the Canadian Red Cross to extend its search to the U.S.

RELATIVES HELP — "We don't have enough blood to handle another hemorrhage," said one doctor.

Four relatives with the same blood type, which lacks four of six genes — have each donated a bottle.

A fifth bottle, donated about 3½ months ago by one of the relatives, was flown here Sunday night from Ottawa.

CONSIDER SURGERY — Doctors were weighing the need of an operation against the supply of blood required. One doctor said "we are very reluctant to operate without blood."

Mr. Hendabee is credited with helping to save the lives of three persons in Canada and one in the United States through his blood donations.

These were his niece's baby in Oromocto, N.B., another baby in Toronto, a woman in Edmonton and a man in Portland, Ore.

Money-Saving Pays Three

CUMBERLAND — Three Vancouver Island servicemen received cash awards from the federal defence department in its October list of money-saving improvements.

They are P. A. Sharples of Cumberland, formerly stationed at CFB Comox, LAC W. C. Bateman of CFB Comox and L.S. G. F. Drier of HMCS Oriole at Esquimalt. In all, 26 amateur inventors and developers suggested improvements during October, with a total saving to the taxpayer of more than $12,000.

DUNCAN — Members of the Duncan-Nanaimo IWA Local will vote in January on a resolution passed by their executive Monday. It suggests the executive give serious consideration to withholding the Local's per capita payments to the B.C. Federation of Labor unless F. P. O'Neal resigns from the executive of the federation.

NANAIMO — Two boys aged 17 and 13 have been remanded to Wednesday in juvenile court on charges of breaking and entering for the younger one and possession of stolen property for the older. Two arrests were made Saturday as a result of a stakeout that followed Kelly Douglas complaints about thefts in recent weeks. Police said more than 20 cartons of cigarettes, candy and gum have been recovered.

LAKE COWICHAN — Two district school board trustees have been returned at two annual meetings for second two-year terms. They are Alec Walker and Mrs. Lee Budd.

DUNCAN — Lake Cowichan resident Petrie Natara has received a fine of $175 and a three-month driving licence suspension as his sentence after pleading guilty to an impaired driving charge.

NANAIMO — Joseph Henry Morrissey, 24, of Victoria, has been fined $250 and given a six-month driving ban after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

UNION BAY — The girls' volleyball team of Grades 6 and 7 in Union Bay elementary school has won the Evergreen conference trophy in a competition with Black Creek, Royston, Arden, Glacier View and Brooklyn schools. The winning team members are captain Laurie Peters, Glenda Hood, Linda McDonald, Tara McElwain, Jody Prowse, Jackie Keenan, Linda Elstrom, Pam Gilbert and Sheryl McKay.

CHEMANUS — Lumber exports from the ports of Chemainus and was the U.S. with Britain second. Pulp and newsprint exports November to 12,259,853 board showed good gains.

UNION BAY — Six people won the largest importer last month prizes at the recent Christmas bazaar of the Order of Pythian Sisters' Union Temple. They were Mrs. Harry Glover, Mrs. Nurdale, Salomon, Mrs. Colin Franklin, Mrs. Spende Walker, Norman Cocker and Maxine Hood. Proceeds go to the Cerebral palsy fund.

Two Originals Attend Union Bay Celebration

Church Still Solid After 60 Years

By MARY MOORE

UNION BAY — Two people who attended the opening of Union Bay United Church in 1906 were present when the people of the church held a party recently to celebrate its diamond anniversary.

Both daughters of Union Bay pioneer Ellen McKay, they are Mrs. Louis Magnus, the first bride in the church, and Mrs. Nellie King.

For six decades, the church has withstood southeast gales, winter's snow, summer heat and changing economic conditions — and still stands solidly in its original place overlooking Baynes Sound.

* * *

When it was going up, the coke ovens — now dark holes and crumbling brick — were going full blast, and locomotives were shunting back and forth on high trestles, carrying coal to waiting ships.

Chinese coal mine workers had their own Chinatown along the highway, and wore a path across the playing field as they trotted single file to and from work.

* * *

Weekly visits of St. Chamer and City of Nanaimo were the only contacts with the outside world, and supplies, mail and newcomers made every arrival a time for community gathering.

A narrow rutty road and trails through the woods were the only means of communication between families.

* * *

COBBLE HILL — Eight property owners from the South Cowichan Ratepayers' Association have volunteered to serve on a steering committee that will investigate formation of a regional district.

The committee follows a recent public meeting where taxpayers agreed the time has come to start such an inquiry.

The proposed district would run from south of Ladysmith to the Malahat and the eight are Rev. R. Stevenson, Shawigan Lake; F. Martin, Cobble Hill; Ken MacKinnon, Cowichan Bay; Peter Owen, Mill Bay; Mrs. J. Westerman, Cowichan Station; Peter McLennan, Cherry Point; and Clarence Ross and Clarence Leding, Eagle Heights and Glenora.

John Bateson of Cobble Hill is the co-ordinator.

The Dunsmuir company had built a boarding house for its workers, and the first white families held church services there in 1897. The names were McKay, Cook, Rushworth and Gibson.

As work and population increased, the need for a real church became obvious and the name of Mike Manson came often in stories of the early days.

* * *

Wharfinger for the company, he obtained a piece of land from it as a gift and personally raised money by donations to get work started.

Rough lumber was acquired free and hauled with horse and wagon by Andrew McKay from the wharf. Everyone worked on the stout, rectangular building, and many added gifts of furnishings and equipment.

* * *

The first church service was held on a fall day in 1906 and, in spite of the outside cold, 25 men, women and children sang hymns of thanksgiving while coal oil lamps flickered and the potbellied stove glowed red.

The important event in this community's life was reviewed in song and story at the 60th anniversary dinner in the community hall.

Readings and original songs were prepared and directed by Janette Geldt. Costumes of 60 years ago were worn by the director, Annie Campbell, Lois Nelson, Myrtle Adamson, Daphne Hamilton, Penny Sexton, Doug Geldt, Ken Peters and Don Bennie.

Mrs. Ed Sawchuck led the community singing and Mrs. Harold Peters played the piano. W. S. Wood was the chairman. Rev. Dean Boundy, minister of the Cumberland, Union Bay and Denman Island charge, added to the historic review.

The Ellen McKay and Even- ing Circles of the church co-operated to prepare and serve the dinner and their presidents, Mrs. J. Stewart and Mrs. Sawchuck, cut the anniversary cake, prepared by Mrs. Fred Peters.

* * *

Mrs. McKay, who has given a lifetime of faithful service to the church she and her husband helped to build, was unable to attend. She is 97 and a patient in Cumberland General Hospital.

Wet Snow, Hail, Cold

Winter Launches Island Invasion

Winter came a lot closer to Vancouver Island Tuesday with the first reports of widespread but light and wet snow.

In addition, the Victoria weather office predicted an occasional mixture of snow in light rain showers on almost all of the island today and Thursday. The main exception concerned the snow mixture to higher levels around Victoria.

LARGER AMOUNTS?

A weather office spokesman said temperatures early today should drop to around 32 at Nanaimo and 38 or lower around Victoria, and the indications were that even a little drop from those levels could bring snow in larger amounts.

Light snowfalls and hailstorms occurred Tuesday afternoon and evening in many parts of Victoria and the surrounding municipalities and such scattered sections as Metichouin, the Patricia Bay Highway, the airport, the Malahat to Duncan, and Courtenay.

COLD NOTICEABLE

The snow wasn't staying on the ground in the Victoria area, where many people who phoned the Colonist commented most on the cold temperatures.

All police departments issued the usual warnings of caution on the roads, from Victoria to the top of the island.

Signs were posted on the Malahat at 8 p.m. Tuesday making it mandatory for all vehicles to carry chains or be equipped with snow-tires to cross the Malahat or take the road into Lake Cowichan.

"BANANA BELT"

RCMP said the only other trouble seemed to be icy conditions at Courtenay.

They added both Nanaimo and Campbell River were not recording snow at mid-evening. In fact, the Campbell River detachment described its area as "the banana belt."

Weathermen at the Patricia Bay Airport said flights were not being affected. They also passed on word that snow is thickening on Salt Spring Island's Mount Tarn, where the freezing level is down to 800 feet.

HIGHER SECTIONS

Earlier in the week, snow arrived in the Cowichan Valley on Mount Tzouhalem and Mount Prevost and gained a bit of depth in higher parts of the Copper Canyon area.

No weatherman was making any predictions about a white Christmas.

Province Approves

Bright Angel Park 22 Acres Larger

Airmen Help Navy

COMOX (CP)—The air force came to the rescue of the navy Tuesday.

An ECAF Dakota aircraft left Comox carrying a ton of food, mostly perishables, to the navy's wireless station at Masset in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The wireless station and several communities have begun to run low on perishable foods because of the tie-up of B.C. ports following the strike of longshore foremen Nov. 17.

COWICHAN STATION—Bright Angel Park, which started as a small area in 1958, has grown to a roomy 27½ acres.

Arthur Burnett, chairman of the South Cowichan parks board, has announced the provincial government has approved a request for a grant of an additional 22 acres to the area district commission.

The original acreage was a little over four when Cowichan Station resident Jack Fleetwood donated the land for development as a 1958 centennial project.

FELL THROUGH

Plans for that development fell through and new attempts at expansion were not made until this year.

The South Cowichan centennial committee undertook the idea as its centennial workshop project. A road was built to the park and improvements were made to Cherry Point Beach.

The request went to the government, and Henry Doseh donated one other acre.

Present plans call for washrooms, change houses, a bridge across the Kokoiwah River, parking facilities and extensive playing fields.

Young scientist Oyen fires special rocket

Student Sends Up First Payload

'Unbreakable' Egg Flies

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — It can be hard to break an egg, even one that goes well up into the air.

Gary Oyen, 13, of Cowichan Station, who has built and launched 50 rockets, proved that at the weekend when he sent up his first rocket with a payload.

* * *

Up into an unsettled sky not far from Mount Tzouhalem went the rocket. One of its three engines didn't fire, so the full altitude of several hundred yards was not obtained.

But, when the rocket finally descended on a parachute, Gary slipped out the egg.

A small attached device showed the egg had withstood—for half a second—pressure of 3,000 pounds, enough to break a horse's back, at least.

Gary will enter an RCAF aerospace contest next February with another rocket of his own design. He calls it Big Coral.

TV Set for Honor Students

Duncan Teens Aid Brannan's Best

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — Teen-agers who have made mistakes and those who don't intend to make any met Monday when the Duncan Teen Town presented a 21-inch TV set to Brannan Lake for its 16 honor students.

Steps leading to the event began when the Duncan juvenile family court committee visited the Brannan school for boys. Committee members later told the Teen Towners about the boys.

The Duncan youngsters challenged Brannan Lake to a volleyball tournament for a start, losing 2-1.

At that time, they found there were more than a dozen honor students at Brannan Lake and they all wanted a television set.

The Teen Town held two dances to raise money and went shopping with the resulting $100. Monday, Richard Calverley, mayor of the Teen Town, presented the set to school principal John Noble—both in honor of the honor students and as an incentive to others to be the same.

* * *

The Duncan visitors also offered help in any other venture that will increase much-needed recreational facilities at the lake.

The evening ended with an hour of music by the Nanaimo concert band—modern popular music.

More Co-op Housing Proposed for Canada

NANAIMO — Canadians spend more on their homes than do the people of any other nation, the executive secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada told more than 50 people Monday night.

Dr. Alexander Laidlaw told the meeting, which was called to consider co-op housing, that many Canadians spend up to 30 per cent of their total earnings — "but something has to suffer."

MANY FACTS

A strong supporter of co-op housing, he presented fact upon fact to the audience.

"Many communities have used co-operative housing schemes, but this hasn't been well developed in Canada," said Dr. Laidlaw.

"The largest housing project in the world is in New York," he said, "and that was built as a co-op."

MAKING ENOUGH

The one area that doesn't need a co-op housing scheme, he said, is the upper-bracket earner, as he is making enough money to handle his own project.

Another financial area was the low-income bracket, where public housing schemes are much more suited to needs.

Dr. Laidlaw said a two-bedroom co-op house could cost $700 down, and monthly payments would cover everything but the telephone charges.

SHAREHOLDER — The homeowner wouldn't own the house, but would be a shareholder in the whole co-op venture.

He suggested municipalities can enter into a provincial and federal government agreement whereby a parcel of land would be purchased, services installed, including streets and sidewalks, and all sold to the homeowner at cost.

FIGURES GIVEN — Help from the governments then would be split — 75 per cent federally and 25 per cent provincially.

"But people who are on the ball are needed," Dr. Laidlaw maintained.

He said the co-op scheme offers the strength of a large group—the bulk buying power necessary to take advantage of reduced purchase costs.

Lake Cowichan Approves Reference Book Money

LAKE COWICHAN—The Lake Cowichan district school board has decided to put money in its budget for the purchase of reference books for pupils.

The board agreed Tuesday evening to add $1 per pupil in 1967 to its present pupil allowance for the book project.

Trustees also learned the exact amount of the next school referendum is $1,134,475, or $7.525 beneath first estimates. Details of the referendum have been sent to the provincial education department for approval.

After that is received, a voting date will be set. The board agreed to see if a

Discipline a Mystery

LAKE COWICHAN—A disciplinary problem involving an unknown number of students occurred recently at Lake Cowichan senior high school, but no one is saying much about it.

The district school board Tuesday voted to write a letter to principal A. P. Paley, telling him he had handled "certain disciplinary problems very well."

No explanation was added and the only other information that has been heard is that "some" students were suspended.

* * *

Decided to consider the use of trailers for teacher accommodation starting next September. The housing problem is particularly difficult in outlying districts.

Approved the recommendation of schools superintendent Robert Price for an increase in relief teachers for Yount and Honeycomb Bay schools, and added one relief teacher 2½ days a month for Mayo and Mesachie Lake schools effective Jan. 1.

Agreed to investigate trustee Mrs. Lee Budd's request for a second, part-time janitor at Yount school.

High Price Paid For Carr Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Emily Carr painting sold for $18,000 at auction Tuesday. Purchaser was Toronto art dealer G. Blair Lang, who declined to say whether he was acting for himself or on behalf of a client. (See also Page 21.)

The price was $10,000 more than previous auction prices for works by the Victoria painter, who died in 1945.

The painting, Trees in the Sky, was presented to the late W. G. Murrin in 1946 when he retired as president of the B.C. Electric Company. He hung it in his basement.

'Door Not Closed'

Dignified Solution Possible—Smith

SALISBURY (UPI)—Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith said Tuesday his breakaway colony still was willing to negotiate the independence issue with Britain. He said it could be resolved "without loss of dignity or face to either side."

He blamed British insistence on a "return to legality"—abandonment of the illegal independence seized Nov. 11 last year—for the failure of the negotiations.

The British government's general attitude in discussions was not to negotiate, he said, but to prescribe conditions with which Rhodesia was expected to comply.

"As I have said so many times in the past, I will never shut the door to constructive discussions with anyone at any time."

Smith told the Rhodesian nation in a television appearance the main reason his government rejected the final British settlement terms was that it was a "sell-out" of Rhodesia's interests. He said the British government's attitude was to "sell out" Rhodesia's interests.

Smith said he still believed an "unbiased and uncommitted commission could solve this problem."

Forlorn Hope

Smith said Prime Minister Wilson's difficulty was that he had made so many commitments to extremist elements "that I believe he will never be able to see the Rhodesian problem in its true perspective."

"This is what bedeviled the issue between the two countries all along and will continue to do so unless on both sides some unbiased person or influence can be brought to bear."

"It is my hope—that the British government will come to appreciate that we cannot tamely submit to dictation and surrender our lives and our future unconditionally to their demands."

Rhodesia Offered U.K. Union

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain offered Rhodesia earlier this year an act of union between the two countries as a possible way out of the Rhodesian independence crisis, Prime Minister Wilson said Tuesday night.

In a countrywide television broadcast, the British leader said that under such a system, until Negro-majority rule was achieved in Rhodesia, Rhodesia and Britain would become one country, with Rhodesians, white and Negro, elected to the British Parliament.

These Rhodesian members of Parliament would have played a full part in all British affairs while Rhodesia still enjoyed full domestic self-government.

"I believe this was an offer of unparalleled generosity in the history of Britain and the Commonwealth," Wilson said.

But Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith had rejected this offer "as he and his colleagues have now rejected the honorable settlement we worked out last week."

SQUEEZE FIGHT ON

From CP, UPI

Effective sanctions against rebellious Rhodesia will be sought at a meeting of the United Nations Security Council called Monday for within 48 hours, but the demands will differ with the source.

In London Prime Minister Wilson told a British television audience the economic sanctions Britain will seek would be "selective" and should not "set the whole of southern Africa ablaze."

Some African nations at the U.N., however, will press for anything less than a total economic boycott of Rhodesia. British Foreign Secretary George Brown left Britain by jet Tuesday to present the British case to the council in New York.

PLANNING PARLEY

The UN ambassadors of 38 African countries will meet today after Brown's arrival, to concert their plans, the African spokesman said.

Britain is expected to ask UN member countries to ban all trade with Rhodesia in certain vital commodities. There is some doubt as to whether oil will be among them.

The Commonwealth sanctions committee in London, headed by Canadian High Commissioner Lionel Chevrier, was scheduled to meet again today.

THREE AFRICANS

There are three African countries, Mali, Uganda and Nigeria, on the 15-country Security Council at present.

"Selective" sanctions, UN observers here said, would apply to the major cash-earning Rhodesian exports such as tobacco, chrome, asbestos, meat and pig iron, but would shy away from vital Rhodesian imports, such as oil, which might embroil South Africa.

Reports from Washington said the United States was ready to back whatever Britain asks the council to do.

Vorster Feels Pact Possible

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South African Premier John Vorster held out the possibility Tuesday night of a last-minute agreement between Britain and Rhodesia on the Rhodesian independence crisis. (See also Page 15.)

He said in a statement his all-white government does not believe such an agreement is impossible "if conditions were not insisted upon which make such a settlement impossible."

Observers believed the premier was referring to Britain's terms for a return to constitutional government in Rhodesia, rejected Monday night by the white-minority Rhodesian government of Ian Smith.

It was the first official South African government comment on the crisis since the rejection and Britain's decision to seek selective mandatory sanctions at the United Nations.

Vorster said he is extremely sorry that, whereas Anglo-Rhodesian agreement had been reached within the framework of Britain's basic principles, the matter is "now being referred to the United Nations only because agreement could not be reached on certain matters of procedure."

"It must be emphasized that no one's cause will be served by this, and it must be foreseen that it will probably create interminable bitterness and damage," Vorster said.

Boost Clarified

Some Pensioners Won't Pay Tax

Victoria income tax officials exemption for charitable donations cleared up one point regarding the federal government's old-age pension legislation. Persons between the age of 65 and 70 get an additional exemption of $500, bringing the total to $1,600, unless they are getting the old-age pension.

If they get the old-age pension, they do not get the additional exemption. The additional $350 a year could then put the government without, indeed, the pensioner in an income-tax-paying bracket.

All persons over 70 are entitled to the full $1,600 exemption for everyone, plus a $100 exemption.

Arbitration?

Docks Action Today

Arbitration may be employed to force an end to the critical British Columbia waterfront tieup, federal Labor Minister J. R. Nicholson said Tuesday in Vancouver before returning to Ottawa.

Mr. Nicholson said he would ask the Commons today to approve a proposal aimed at ending the 19-day-old strike, that is crippling shipping and is spreading layoffs in the forest industry.

"It is sufficient to say arbitration might be involved if necessary," he said, and declined to elaborate.

NO PROGRESS

The minister said he made no progress in a meeting with longshore employers earlier Tuesday, seeking acceptance of the formula he had proposed Sunday.

"As the prime minister and I have stated, this dispute can no longer hold up distribution of products and result in the layoff of thousands of persons in other industries," Mr. Nicholson said. Mr. Nicholson's proposal would permit the 190 striking foremen to have grievance procedure and the right to form an association without belonging to the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

PRIMITIVE FORM

The longshore foremen accepted the proposal, but the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association turned it down, calling it a "device" and a "primitive form of collective agreement."

Contempt Warning Issued By Bugging-Case Judge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A warning about possible contempt action was issued Tuesday by retired judge R. A. Sargent, the one-man royal commission looking into the planting of electronic listening devices at a union convention.

The commissioner said he has the power of a Supreme Court judge to punish for contempt, and will use the power if necessary. But he took no action against persons and publications a lawyer said were in contempt.

LAWYER COMPLAINS

The inquiry, ordered by Premier Bennett, opened Monday into charges that bugging devices were installed in Vancouver hotel rooms used by a convention of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

The union alleged that Pat O'Neal, organizer for the rival international brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, organized the eavesdropping.

Richard Anderson, lawyer for Mr. O'Neal, said there had already been contempt of the commission which prejudiced persons involved.

He said the contempt was committed in articles in the Pacific Tribune, Progressive Worker, the Vancouver Sun and in a letter to unions from Syd Thompson, president of Local 1217 of the International Woodworkers of America.

For 500 Fund

Victorian Yields Spirits to Spirit

One generous Victorian is going to forego "one" of his Christmas bottles in order that the area's 500 neediest families might have a little extra cheer for their Christmas.

The $5 donated by A. N. Onymous (whose donation was listed yesterday) only represents one cent per family, but added together, often enough pennies can assume an overwhelming aspect.

"Another $5 for the Colonist 500 Fund," Mr. Onymous writes, "representing one less crotch of Christmas cheer so that someone less fortunate can have a better form of cheer."

One might say it's kind of like getting the spirit by giving up the spirits.

Numerous donors with the Spirit of Christmas added heavily to the fund Tuesday, raising its total $644.95 to $4,951.75.

The almost $650 was the highest (no pun intended) one-day total to date.

Money collected is divided equally and then shared by the 500 neediest families in the area, as selected by welfare agencies.

Donations may be mailed to or left at The Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or Avis Rent-A-Car, 800 Douglas.

Treenappers Get the Needle

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Careful, country dwellers: the tree you buy may be your own. It's the annual treenapping time, and each year, the Christmas tree thieves grow bolder.

Take the brief two acres where I live, with less than an acre of it cleared.

It's a private little second-growth wilderness where family and friends gather each year to collect pine cones and long-needed boughs for door decorations, and green and scarlet sprays of prickly Oregon grape to eke out purchased holly.

It's a special spot, where a pair of pheasants has a secret hideaway. In late fall, the juncoes flit from willow bough to compost heap and seedpod. Flickers cluster around the old pear tree, now gone wild over the years. Robins go and lovebirds come, all finding peace and protection in the overgrown acre.

The whole little timberlot isn't more than 400 feet long — just a pleasant green barrier between this home and the neighbors at the end of the dead-end road.

almost a dozen fresh stumps, some several feet above ground, showing only the choice top section had been chopped from a well-grown tree.

A dozen trees gone already, and it's still a week or so until the annual surge of tree-seeking.

The RCMP have their own way of dealing with treenappers. They issue stern warnings annually to those who would cut trees on crown land. MacMillan Bloedel property, or other privately-owned land without a permit. Sometimes they catch a treenapper and charge him under the Forestry Act.

I would have my own private vengeance. I don't wish harm, to those who buy the trees innocently. I hope their lights shine as brightly and their gifts are as many as in other homes.

I don't even wish for compensation for the treenappers. Perhaps they desperately needed the $25 or so that the stolen trees provide.

It's not exactly a curse I'd lay on the tree thieves. But I do hope they never have the pleasure of a flock of feathered friends.

I hope they never know the delight of looking out on a snowy morning to find friend pheasant and his wife scratching and feeding in a sheltered clear spot beside the house.

I hope the flickers never add an orange gleam to their sudden winter landscape. May the robins and goldfinches of summer never lighten their lives.

May swallows never swoop about their homes and nest in the eaves as a sign of happiness within.

May the only bird they ever come to know intimately be their Christmas turkey, which is raised without need of a tree for shelter.

And may their Christmas turkey give them indigestion.
